What Is Finance? Hays No Catspaw When Women Steal The Basilisk Eye

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

European money, and various United States stocks dropped gently together yesterday. A few years ago any statesman in Europe or America would have undertaken to tell all about finance. Now the wise admit they know nothing about it. Germany starts paying billions to France and England, and French and English money go down, even more rapidly than German money.

Over here, there was a stock gambling effort to cheer up because the President was "talking disarmament," which would cut down taxation. But somebody asked, "What will happen to the poor steel companies, if they stop building warships?" and the cheerfulness died out.

Some bankers don't like Postmaster Hays' plan for putting the Post Office Savings Bank on a sensible, strong basis.

They offer to instruct and guide Mr. Hays, suggesting that he make himself a collecting agency to gather savings and turn them over to savings banks. As a government cat, employed to pull chestnuts out of the fire for others, Mr. Hays will not prove a success.

Mr. Hays' plan will bring out of hiding into circulation hundreds of millions of dollars that the country needs. It will interest millions of little savers in government and its management, all of which is more important than the opinion of the "president of the Savings Bank Division of the American Bankers' Association."

Thomas Loyden, young detectives, understands women. He wanted a confession from Jean Cunningham, accused of stealing jewelry from her employer. His first words to the lady were:

"I suppose you know that bird you stole for went and got married, don't you?"

The detective simply guessed at the "bird" in question, and was also guessing at the woman's guilt, but says he, "When a woman steals, she always steals for some man."

He was right, the woman confessed.

Even in the thievery women are better than men. A man steals because he wants something for himself. A woman because she wants something for somebody else, usually.

Ancient superstition described the basilisk that kills you with a glance of the eye. Now, Dr. Ruan describes a "vision ray" as actual projecting of force from the eye.

Everybody is conscious, especially in anger, of an actual effort to "strike" with the eye at the object hated. There are in history many men whose eye other men could not endure. Bismarck, for instance, was a man hard to look at when in anger.

When John L. Sullivan in New York fought a professor declared to be "the perfect physical man," he looked once at the professor as he stepped toward him. The professor fell down without being touched, and that was the end of the fight. Not a bad basilisk imitation.

Ekov, Danish captain of a twenty-six-year-old sailing ship, ran into an iceberg. He turned his starboard side to the blow that his masts might not be uprooted by a head-on collision. Ordinarily the big hole in the ship's side would have taken everybody to the bottom. But Skov has not sailed for nothing. He had his ship broadside to the wind, the ship rolled over and the hole was lifted out of the water. Then he filled up the hole with a casing of cement, sand and coal. For two days he sailed with the wind against the beam, keeping the cement out of the water to dry.

He and the crew are safe, and all he wrote in his log was: "Hit iceberg," and "made 2 casings and stopped water."

That reminds you of Cromwell's literary style. It is not unlikely that the blood in Captain Skov got into Cromwell when men from Denmark landed on the English coast long ago.

Ye that think money more important than labor, consider the situation in this country. We are taking in gold by the ton. More than three hundred and thirty-eight millions of gold have come within six months, and the golden stream continues.

But with more gold than we ever dreamed of having, those that own the gold, capitalists, gentlemen generally, are worried. Why?

Because five million men are idle in this country, with twenty million people depending on them.

What really counts is the work that men do, the wealth that labor produces, not the amount of gold piled in vaults.

We could afford to lose nine-tenths of all our gold, if, by so doing, we could put nine-tenths of our idle men at useful work.

What is to be done about the five millions idle and the twenty millions depending on them? Who is to feed them when their savings give out next Winter? If they are not fed, who is to keep them quiet, and how is it to be done?

SEEKS TO DIVORCE ARTIST

Dr. Seth L. Strong of Marshfield Accuses Wife of Cruel and Abusive Treatment

Dr. Seth L. Strong, prominent physician of Marshfield, has filed suit for divorce against his wife, Clara L. Strong, noted sculptor and artist, charging her with cruel and abusive treatment.

The suit has caused a tremendous sensation among society on the South Shore.

Mrs. Strong, active in art and literature, is prominent in club life. Her statue of Edward Winslow, credited as her best work, was unveiled at the "Pageant of Freedom" at Marshfield last Fall.

Dr. Strong is equally prominent as one of the leading physicians on the South Shore. They have three children, the youngest of which is only a year old.

A strange feature of the case is that the doctor and his wife are still living under the same roof at Seaview.

Mrs. Strong, a social leader on the South Shore, has been active for years in the civic life of that section of the state. In 1916 she was the director of the fete, "A Trip Around the World."

Later she became nationally famous as the originator of the "camouflage camp," at which she taught scores of students the art of war-time camouflage.

Her statue of Edward Winslow, Pilgrim Father is a masterpiece. It has been planned to erect it in the centre of a park in Marshfield to commemorate the Pilgrim landing.

NOTED WOMAN SCULPTOR SUED FOR DIVORCE

Prominent Marshfield artist, author of the Edward Winslow statue, director of pageants, originator of the "camouflage camp." Her husband is one of the leading physicians of the South Shore, where his action for divorce has created a sensation. Mrs. Strong was active in war work, maintaining a school for teaching the art of camouflage. Her sculptures have given her a high place in the world of art.

POLICEMAN ACCUSED, RESIGNS

Mulvey Charged With Kicking and Punching Wounded War Veteran

Charged by a World War veteran with assaulting him, Patrolman Mulvey of Station 6, South Boston, has resigned.

Mulvey was charged with an assault on John F. McCarthy of South Boston, who claimed that last Tuesday he was accosted by three patrolmen in plain clothes and that one of the number kicked him in the leg, opening a wound he received in France, and punched him in the jaw.

McCarthy says he was attending to his own affairs when the alleged assault was made.

Representative Joseph Toomey and other friends of McCarthy were ready to bring charges against the patrolman when word was received from Station 6 that Mulvey had resigned.

SEVERAL PIRATE SHIPS?

Report of British Captain Strengthens Belief in Menace of Freebooters of Sea

By International News Service.

Washington, July 12.—The conviction that pirates operating off the Atlantic coast are responsible for the disappearance of a score of ships, laden with crews and cargoes, was further strengthened today by receipt of reports from the captain of the British steamer Crosteth Hall that a mysterious vessel had been sighted off Halifax.

The possibility that there may be several pirate craft operating in American coastal waters is now receiving serious consideration from officials here. It was stated today by William Layle, assistant commissioner of navigation.

Sears Girl, Mishawum Manor Pianist, Tells Details of $100,000 "Nero Circus"

Theresa M. Sears, piano player at Mishawum Manor the night "Brownie" Kennedy conducted her "Nero Circus" for New York motion picture men, told the girls' side of that revel today, as a witness in the Tufts case.

There were about fifteen of the motion picture men, she said, and they ate, drank and made merry until a late hour.

Three of them, Riam Abrams, Edward A. Golden and Henry Asher, remained after the others had gone, she continued.

She added that she knew Golden and Asher, well known in the motion picture circles in Boston, as she had seen them at Mishawum Manor about two weeks before.

Miss Sears, who is now married and lives in South Boston, asked to be excused from naming her present street address. This favor was granted.

She followed Attorney Joseph M. Levenson on the stand and her testimony was not more sensational than his.

PAID TO ESCAPE PUBLICITY.

Levenson said bluntly that the motion picture men "caught" in the Nero Circus scandal paid $100,000 to avoid publicity.

He would not admit that leading lawyers in the case were retained rather for their political sagacity, nor would he admit that efforts were made to "reach" District Attorney Tuttle through political friends.

Attorney Levenson, something of a man of mystery in the Mishawum Manor case, admitted that late in the Summer of 1921 he was told some of the motion picture men were "holding for their money back."

He intimated that "Addie" Burroughs was conspicuous in this criticism of some of the lawyers for getting large fees.

Levenson further said that he had been informed that Attorney David H. Oakley had been given $25,000, partly as fees, but possibly partly to

TWO QUEER FIRES IN NORTH END HOUSES

Two fires believed to be of incendiary origin were discovered within fifteen minutes of each other in the North End in two houses separated by not more than 200 yards. Both houses were vacant, and in each case the fire started on the same floor and, according to Fire Captain William Powers, in the same manner.

The first fire was at No. 1 Auburn court, in the third floor of a four-story brick building, owned by R. E. Wyner of No. 18 Tremont street. The second was at No. 14 Gilson street, in the third floor of the three-story building owned by Mrs. Greenwood of Dedham.

TWENTY-FIVE MEN AND 12 GIRLS AT MISHAWUM REVEL---LEVENSON

LASKY PRESENT AT 'NERO CIRCUS,' LAWYER TESTIFIES

settle with husbands threatening alienation suits.

On developments today were evidence concerning "code" letters between lawyers in the case, and evidence that William J. Burns, the private detective, had been sought to "trace the connection between threats of alienation suits and the office of District Attorney Tuft."

Levenson, attorney for some of the motion picture men during the blackmail, which it is alleged followed the revel, was there himself.

"The girls were all young," he said today, when asked to be specific as to ages.

"There were ten or twelve of them, and twenty or twenty-five men."

There was drinking and a generally gay and unconventional time, but he did not see anything especially compromising to the men, or justifying alienation suits by husband of the young women, the lawyer declared.

He left early, however, about 2 o'clock in the morning. Some of the motion picture men at the revel stayed until nearly daybreak.

Levenson made public for the first time that he was at the "Nero Circus," although it had been generally known he acted as counsel for motion picture producers "caught" following the affair.

SAYS LASKY WAS THERE.

Incidentally, Levenson removed all doubt as to the presence at Mishawum Manor of Jesse Lasky, vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Previous witnesses had "not remembered" about Lasky. Levenson said he was there, and left with him.

Short, stocky, dark complexioned, Levenson has been from the beginning something of a man of mystery in the Mishawum Manor case.

He was subjected to the most rigid examination by special Attorney-General Hurlburt, and often took refuge in the convenient "I don't know."

This or a blunt denial constituted his answers to queries as to whether Daniel H. Coakley and Charles H. Innes were retained for their political prestige rather than their legal attainments to defend the motion picture men.

Levenson was rather vague as to what "request" he made of James M. Curley, Mayor in 1917, which Curley told him in a letter sent May 1, 1917, he was loath to gratify.

"Don't you know what you asked Curley?" said Hurlburt a dozen times, twisting the form of the question, but preserving the spirit. Levenson stuck to it that he did not remember asking Curley to intervene in behalf of the badly frightened motion picture men.

The attorney took the stand in place of Theresa M. Sears, ex-piano player at Mishawum Manor. She was to go on today, but did not appear early. She will resume the stand later.

SEARS GIRL DELAYED.

The courtroom was crowded as the second day of the trial began. One of the first acts of the court today was issuance of an order to Deputy Sheriff Richard Murray that no more sketching was to be done by newspapermen.

Attorney Henry F. Hurlburt announced to the court that Theresa M. Sears, piano player at Mishawum Manor during the regime "Brownie" Kennedy, had been delayed, owing to household duties and care of her infant child, which she brought to court with her yesterday.

Hurlburt said he had intended to put her on first. He added that he was forced to introduce another witness, with the consent of the court.

Chief Justice Rugg assented and Hurlburt called Attorney Joseph N. Levenson, mentioned by Allen as a conspirator with Tufts, Daniel H. Coakley and former District Attorney William J. Corcoran of Middlesex, the Mishawum Manor "plot."

Levenson, short and dark complexioned, has been considered one of the mysterious figures in the case since his early disclosures. His testimony was followed with keen interest by the spectators, many of whom were leading lawyers.

Attorney Hurlburt—Q—Did you act as counsel for any motion picture interests? A.—I have, for some years.

Q.—Was your attention called to the affair at Mishawum Manor, March 8, 1917? A.—It was. I was with Hiram Abrams in Portland, Me., when he received a telephone call from Mayor Curley of Boston telling him to hurry back to the city in connection with that matter.

Q.—What time did you arrive at the Hotel Touraine? A.—About 7 or 8 o'clock.

Q.—Was a telephone message sent to Attorney Coakley? A.—Yes.

Q.—What time did Coakley arrive? A.—About 8:30 or 9.

Q.—Did you hear any of the conversation? A.—Part of it.

Attorney Fletcher Ranney, counsel for Tufts, objected to any part of the conversation being testified to by Levenson, but the court allowed the witness to proceed.

Attorney Hurlburt—Tell us what was said. A.—There was some talk about an investigation over in Cambridge in connection with what took place at Winthrop.

Q.—Did you know what affair was meant? A.—I did.

Q.—Were you present at that party at Mishawum Manor? A.—Yes, I was.

Q.—How many were out there from the Copley-Plaza? A.—Twenty or twenty-five. (This estimate was about twice as high as that of other witnesses.)

Q.—Did you make arrangements for that party? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Do you know who did? A.—No.

TEN OR TWELVE GIRLS.

Q.—When did the party at the manor start? A.—We arrived there about 12 m.

Q.—When did you leave? A.—About 2 a. m.

Q.—Anybody leave with you? A.—Mr. Greene, Mr. Lasky and Mr. Zukor.

Q.—Was there drinking? A.—Yes.

Q.—How many girls were there? A.—Ten or twelve.

Q.—Weren't there more girls than that? A.—No.

Q.—What were their ages? A.—I don't know. They were all young girls.

Q.—Did you know any of them? A.—No.

Q.—Had you ever been to that house before? A.—Never.

Q.—While at that house that night did you notice any of the men go upstairs with girls? A.—No.

Q.—Was Zukor in the room downstairs all the time? A.—Well, he may have been dancing. The witness said was sort of L shaped, near the piano.

Q.—Was that done after you had that interview at the Hotel Touraine? A.—It was agreed that Mr. Greene, Mr. Arbuckle and Mr. Abrams were to meet Attorney Coakley at his office next day.

Q.—Why did they go to his office? A.—Because he was to go with them to East Cambridge to interview District Attorney Tufts.

CONFERRED WITH ATTWILL.

Continuing his testimony, Levenson said that he knew they had an appointment to go to Cambridge to see Mr. Tufts the next morning.

Q.—From whom did you get that information? A.—I have no recollection. Probably from Mr. Greene or Mr. Abrams.

Q.—Did you get the information in the presence of Mr. Coakley? A.—I believe so.

Q.—When they returned from Coakley's office what did they do? A.—They came to my office.

Q.—Who were at your office? A.—Mr. Abrams, Mr. Greene and Mr. Bernan (Abe Berman, Tuesday).

Witness testified that as a result of the conference in his office he and Berman went to the State House the same day to confer with Henry U. Attwill and that they met Greene and Abrams at the witness's office following that visit.

Q.—What was the next thing that was done? A.—Nothing was done until the following Tuesday, or Wednesday, when I called Mr. Wright (District Attorney Charles H. Wright of Hampden County) into the case.

Q.—Why did you call Mr. Wright into the case? A.—Objection was made. Witness was not permitted to answer.

Q.—Up to that time had you received any communication from Mr. Coakley? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Had you received any from Mayor Curley? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—Did you receive any communications wherein Coakley withdrew? A.—Yes; I received a letter from Mr. Curley.

DIARY ENTRIES READ.

Q.—Do you remember the day of the month you received it? A.—No.

Q.—Have you any books or data in connection with this case? A.—I have a diary and a checkbook.

"Let me see your diary," said Hurlburt, who then began to read into the record entries from the document, as follows:

May 31, 1917—"J. M. and M. L. at Portland."

Saturday, May 12, 1917—"Services re H. and A. all day."

Sunday, May 13—"Services re H. A.' and A. all day."

Monday, May 14—"Services re H. A.' Tuesday, May 15—Same re H. A."

May 22—"J. M. and L. New York all day, re H. A. Paid expenses of David Stoneman."

Witness admitted some of these entries were made with ink and some with pencil and written about the dates mentioned.

Q.—When you saw David Stoneman called in? A.—A few days before the day mentioned in the diary (May 22).

NEW YORK PARLEY.

Q.—The first time David Stoneman's name is mentioned in your diary is May 22. Up to that time had you received any communication from Mayor Curley? A.—I think so.

Q.—Was it in consequence of that letter from Mr. Curley that Mr. Stoneman was brought into the case? A.—It may have been one of the reasons.

Q.—Prior to May 22 did Stoneman interview Coakley? A.—I imagine he did.

Q.—Don't you know he did? A.—It was a long time back and it is hard to remember dates.

Q.—Can't you say one way or other? A.—No.

Witness then told Hurlburt, examining, that at ah interview in New York, when David Stoneman accompanied him, Mr. Abrams, Zukor and Greene were present.

Q.—Did you have any papers when you went to New York with Stoneman? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—Did you have any letters from Mr. Curley when you went to New York with Stoneman? A.—I don't think so.

Hurlburt then referred to a letter of May 11, 1917, written to witness by Mayor Curley.

Q.—Had you asked Mr. Curley to intervene for any parties? A.—I don't think so.

TRIED TO GET COAKLEY BACK.

Q.—Did you ever write or tell Mr. Curley that the statements in the letter of May 15 were not true? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—This letter of May 12 states that he hesitates to comply with your request. What request did you make? A.—I presume something was said at the Hotel Touraine.

Q.—Don't you know today what request you made of Curley? A.—No.

Witness said a number of conversations were held in New York in reference to "this Winthrop affair." He added, "We discussed various phases of the matter. Whether we should get Coakley back into the case and fight the issue when it came up, among other things. I think we felt that Mr. Coakley having started would remain in the case."

Q.—Was anything said about his influence? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Nothing at all? A.—No, sir.

Q.—And all that you thought was that Mr. Coakley, having started in the case, should remain in it?

A.—Yes, that's about all, except that we discussed his ability as a lawyer in trying criminal cases.

Q.—On that visit to New York by you and Stoneman was anything said about Stoneman seeing Coakley? A.—No; we wanted Stoneman to see Coakley and have him remain in the case.

DIDN'T MENTION TUFTS.

Q.—Was anything said about Tufts? A.—Not so far as I know.

Q.—Was anything said about Tufts and Coakley together? A.—Nothing except that Coakley had started in the case and should remain in it.

Q.—Was Tufts' name mentioned? A.—It may have been.

Q.—Give your best recollection. A.—I have no recollection on that matter.

Q.—Will you say the names of Coakley and Tufts were not coupled in that conversation? A.—No.

Q.—What else was said? A.—We may have discussed the advisability of avoiding any publicity in the matter.

Q.—Is it your recollection that the advisability of avoiding publicity was discussed? A.—We discussed it in some of the conferences, but I do not think whether that was one of them.

Q.—When did Hiram Abrams come to Boston from New York after seeing the letter which Curley sent to you? A.—On Sunday or Monday.

Q.—Had Coakley communicated with you after the letter of May 12? A.—No.

Q.—Or you with him? A.—No.

Witness said they had more conferences, at which he was present, and that Coakley came back into the case a day or two after the visit of the witness to New York, accompanied by Stoneman.

ARRAY OF LAWYERS.

Q.—Did Coakley come back into the case on Wednesday or Thursday? A.—I think he did.

Q.—Did you ever learn that he had come back into the case? A.—Yes. I learned from Mr. Stoneman at my office, within a day or two after we came back from New York.

Q.—Who is the "H. A." referred to in your diary? Is it Hiram Abrams? A.—Yes.

Q.—You have an entry here which reads "Saturday, all day with H. A." Who was present at that conference? A.—My brother, Mr. Wright, Mr. Abrams, Mr. Berman, Mr. Greene and possibly Mr. Asher.

Q.—What was done at that conference? A.—We discussed the progress of the case.

Q.—Why do you think the matter of having other counsel in the case was discussed? A.—The last of May.

Q.—Then was it discussed? A.—Either in New York or at my office.

Q.—Which do you think it was? A.—I think in New York.

Q.—And at that time Mr. Abrams, Mr. Wright, Mr. Berman and Mr. Greene were present? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was other counsel brought in?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Who? A.—Mr. Innes.

Q.—Was it discussed at the last part of May.

Q.—How you any data as to when he was brought in? A.—No.

Q.—When Charles H. Innes was brought into the case Daniel H. Coakley, Charles Wright, Mr. Stoneman, Mr. Berman and yourself were the attorneys already in? A.—Yes.

WRIGHT SAW TUFTS.

Q.—Up to that time had anything been done by any of the counsel in the case? A.—Mr. Wright went to see Mr. Tufts.

Q.—Do you know if it was in consequence of what you learned from Mr. Wright regarding that interview with Tufts that Charles H. Innes was employed? A.—I don't know. I don't think so.

Q.—On Friday, June 1, did you have a conference at the office of Mr. Innes? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who was present? A.—All I can definitely mention now.

Q.—What was the conference about? A.—I think that Mr. Innes said that he had been in conference with Mr. Tufts or that he was going over.

Q.—What is your best recollection? A.—That he had been to see Tufts.

LEARNED OF SUMMONS.

Attorney Hurlburt questioned Levenson very sharply concerning the Grand Jury summons received by Mr. Golden.

Q.—Did you learn about this summons from David Stoneman or Coakley, Innes or Berman? A.—I think I learned about it from Coakley.

Q.—Did it surprise you to hear that Golden had received a Grand Jury summons? A.—I think it did.

Q.—Did you ever confer with Tufts or Coakley about that summons? A.—No.

Q.—You knew Tufts had been making an investigation to show your clients were not guilty of any improperty at Mishawum Manor, didn't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—Knowing that you knew that Tufts had completed that investigation when you saw the summons?

Before the question was answered Attorney Ranney objected. The question was excluded.

Q.—What did you do about the summons? A.—I probably talked about it with Mr. Innes, Mr. Wright and Stoneman.

Q.—You say probably? Didn't you? A.—I did.

Q.—With which one of these men? A.—I talked with Innes.

TALKED WITH INNES.

Q.—Over the 'phone or in person? A.—I talked with him personally.

Q.—What did you say to Stoneman about it? A.—Something was said that it looked as though there was going to be a Grand Jury investigation.

Q.—And you were concerned about the summons? A.—Somewhat.

Q.—Did you recommend that no money be paid? A.—Not if they were willing to take the chance of summons.

Q.—Did Golden show you that summons the day he got it? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—How soon after Golden received the summons was he ordered to appear? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Was it a week after? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did he communicate with Innes? A.—I don't think Innes was in the case when he got it.

Q.—How soon after that was Innes called into the case? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—When you had your first conference with Innes, did you tell him about the summons? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you ever talk with Aylward about his claim against Zukor? A.—No.

Q.—Did you talk with Coakley, Stoneman or anybody? A.—Mr. Wright.

Q.—Did you ever see Tufts or Coakley about this matter? A.—Not on that case.

Q.—You know that Tufts and Coakley are friends?

INNES WAS RETAINED.

Ranney rose to this before the witness could answer.

Q.—Did Mr. Innes know Tufts? A.—I presume he did; everybody in the State knows Mr. Innes because of his political life.

Q.—Was it not because of Mr. Innes' broad political life that he was retained in this case? A.—I presume so.

Q.—Who attended the conference at New London, June 2, 1917? A.—Mr. Stoneman, Mr. Burman, Hiram Abrams and myself.

Q.—Where was it held? A.—At a hotel in New London.

Q.—What hotel? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you ever tell your clients that Asher and Golden ought to be retained not to talk about the case?

Again Attorney Ranney objected. Justice Rugg said that if the name of the client was given in evidence the question might be asked.

Levenson replied that he had told Abrams that Asher and Golden ought to be cautioned not to make incorrect statements, as they would injure the case.

Attorney Hurlburt then questioned Levenson concerning the checks paid by the motion picture men in connection with the Mishawum Manor party.

Q.—You received a check for $15,-000? A.—Yes.

Q.—Can you show any record of deposit?

Levenson here produced his office diary, showing that on June 1, 1917, the witness had paid Attorney H. Innes $2,500 by check on the International Trust Company. The check was endorsed by Innes. The diary also showed that on January 11, 1917, Levenson had paid to David Stoneman checks for $2,500 and $4,000, a total of $7,000, without receiving any credit from Stoneman.

$100,000 TO AVOID PUBLICITY.

Q.—Did you ever make out any bill to Abrams when he paid you the $15,000? A.—No.

The witness testified that the money was paid to settle counsel fees and at the clamorous request of young girls who took part in the revel at the Manor. He said that Innes said at a conference that $15,-000 should cover all claims and lawyers' fees. The $100,000 was paid to avoid publicity, Levenson said.

Q.—Was this paid to avoid prosecution? A.—It was paid to avoid publicity and to settle complaints. If there were no complaints there would not likely be any prosecution.

Q.—Did you hear Mr. Innes say anything about if complaints were withdrawn after his conference with Mr. Tufts? A.—He said that he was to be paid if there were no complaints there would be no prosecution.

KNEW COAKLEY GOT $85,000.

The witness, continuing his testimony, said he understood complaints had been made against Abrams, Zukor and several others in connection with the Woburn party.

Q.—You know that $85,000 was paid to Coakley? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who paid it? A.—I believe Mr. Innes or Mr. Stoneman.

Q.—The check which you received is dated June 8, indorsed by Mr. Coakley June 4. Was anything said at a conference at your office about having Coakley indorse the check for the sum of $85,000? A.—I don't recall, but I remember they said Coakley had been settled with.

Q.—How many conferences were held in the office of Mr. Innes after June 2? A.—Two, possibly three.

Q.—Was there any mention of Coakley's fee in any of your conversations with Stoneman? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you say to your counsel for Mr. Abrams you'd like to know for how much he'd have to pay for counsel fees? Not the way it was arranged, it was agreed $100,000 would be paid and that would include everything.

Witness said he saw two releases, which came either from Innes or Stoneman, and which he mailed to Abrams. One of the releases was sent to New York in a letter dated September 14, 1917.

SW STONEMAN SINCE.

Q.—Prior to sending those releases had you ever heard the name "Bessie MacDonald"? A.—I may have.

Q.—Had you ever heard the name "Theresa M. Sears" up to that time? A.—I can't say that I had.

Witness said he did not talk with anyone representing Coakley or Tufts since the institution of the present proceedings, but did talk with Stoneman. He could not recall when. He also said he did not prepare the releases and did not know who did. He could not say whether Coakley, Innes or Stoneman did.

Q.—Did you advise Abrams to talk to Adolph Zukor to keep him quiet about this matter? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Are you positive about it? A.—That is my best recollection.

Q.—Did you ever write to Jim tellin him he was making investigation and to keep his mouth shut? A.—I don't think so.

Attorney General Allen then arose and stated that he had in his possession a photographic copy of a letter written to Abrams by the witness, relating to subject matter. It also stated that Abrams had released Levenson from any privilege that he thought the latter ought to go in.

State's Case Against Dist. Atty. Tufts

District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex county is on trial before the Supreme Court on charges of malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance in office preferred by Attorney General J. Weston Allen.

His removal from office is sought on the grounds that he failed to prosecute certain defendants and conspired with certain lawyers and laymen for his personal aggrandisement. Altogether he is faced by fifty-one specific charges.

In the foreground of the charges is the linking of Tufts with the alleged blackmailing of eight or ten moving picture magnates of national prominence in the amount of $100,-000 through threats of prosecution after they had attended an all-night revel with girls at Mishawum Manor, Woburn, a roadhouse conducted by "Brownie" Kennedy, a missing principal in the case.

Of equal gravity but of less sensational detail is the charge that Tufts arranged the clandestine departure of young girls who took part in the revel at the Manor. He said that Innes said at a conference that $15,-000 should cover all claims and lawyers' fees. The $100,000 was paid to avoid publicity, Levenson said.

Q.—Was this paid to avoid prosecution? A.—It was paid to avoid publicity and to settle complaints. If there were no complaints there would not likely be any prosecution.

Q.—Did you hear Mr. Innes say anything about if complaints were withdrawn after his conference with Mr. Tufts? A.—He said that he was to be paid if there were no complaints there would be no prosecution.

KNEW COAKLEY GOT $85,000.

The witness, continuing his testimony, said he understood complaints had been made against Abrams, Zukor and several others in connection with the Woburn party.

Q.—You know that $85,000 was paid to Coakley? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who paid it? A.—I believe Mr. Innes or Mr. Stoneman.

Q.—The check which you received is dated June 8, indorsed by Mr. Coakley June 4. Was anything said at a conference at your office about having Coakley indorse the check for the sum of $85,000? A.—I don't recall, but I remember they said Coakley had been settled with.

Q.—How many conferences were held in the office of Mr. Innes after June 2? A.—Two, possibly three.

Q.—Was there any mention of Coakley's fee in any of your conversations with Stoneman? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you say to your counsel for Mr. Abrams you'd like to know for how much he'd have to pay for counsel fees? Not the way it was arranged, it was agreed $100,000 would be paid and that would include everything.

Witness said he saw two releases, which came either from Innes or Stoneman, and which he mailed to Abrams. One of the releases was sent to New York in a letter dated September 14, 1917.

He also said he did not prepare the releases and did not know who did. He could not say whether Coakley, Innes or Stoneman did.

Attorney General Allen then arose and stated that he had in his possession a photographic copy of a letter written to Abrams by the witness, relating to subject matter. It also stated that Abrams had released Levenson from any privilege that he thought the latter ought to go in.

Stoneman Protests Hurlburt's Charge.

Editor Boston American:

Monday evening's papers quote Mr. Hurlburt as saying that he will contend that I was a go-between or a co-conspirator in the Mishawum Manor case so-called.

I was not in court when this incident came up and consequently did not hear what was said.

If the newspapers have quoted Mr. Hurlburt correctly his statement is not only untrue but extremely unjust to me.

I was retained as counsel by Mr. Hiram Abrams and others to assist in the prosecution of the case. Acting in that capacity, and in that capacity alone, I did what I could to adjust the matter quickly and without publicity to my clients.

In making the settlement I not only served my clients but carried out their express wishes.

If the performance of my duty to my clients and the performance of the professional functions of a member of the bar makes me a go-between or a conspirator the entire basic structure of the legal profession is seriously jeopardized.

DAVID STONEMAN.

Curley Not a Party to "Plot," Says Hurlburt

Ex-Mayor James M. Curley made the following statement:

"Upon the adjournment of court in the Tufts case I waited upon Attorney Henry F. Hurlburt and protested against the statement appearing in certain newspapers, charging me with being a go-between or party to the conspiracy in the Tufts case, and was informed by Mr. Hurlburt that he had no intention of calling me as a witness and reiterated the statement made by him in opening the case that I was not a party to the conspiracy."

BOSTON WIVES SAY "HUBBIES" SHOULD SHARE FIFTY-FIFTY

HIT RULING MAN MUST ONLY PAY EXPENSES

By HAZEL GANNING

How much is it the duty of Friend Husband to give his good wife?

Does his responsibility end when he has provided a roof over her head and three meals a day?

Has he done enough when he lets her out in bungalow aprons, or should a creation or two, from Paris or elsewhere, be included in his duty to her?

Just what should the man who has promised to love, cherish and honor his wife, do for her in the matter of raiment, adornment and setting?

Are there any fixed rules on this matter?

'Tis a grave question. As the authorities answer variously.

Supreme Court Justice Norman R. Dike of New York says:

"A husband's responsibilities end with the purchase of household necessities; his responsibilities do not extend to furnishing the extravagances of her fancy."

And Justice Dike ordered a department store to give back garages which young husband Frederick Leslie Ryan had offered as payment for the "extravagances of fancy" of his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Ryan.

BOSTON WIVES DISAGREE.

Now, in Boston, good wives don't quite agree with Justice Dike. Maids and matrons think a husband really should do a little more for his wife than mere provide her household necessities.

For instance, Mrs. Mellon R. Joy, wife of Captain Joy of the fire department of Charlestown, firmly believes that a husband should supply all his wife's wants.

"My husband," says she, "during the years of our married life gave me nothing beyond the grocery money and two pairs of shoe strings. But I certainly think that any husband should buy his wife as good clothes as his means allow, and furnish his home out of his own pocket, just as beautifully as he can afford."

ENTITLED TO CLOTHES.

Miss Bertha W. Swift, president of the Professional Woman's Club, is emphatic in her views.

"A husband's responsibility limited to household necessities! Bah —— What rot! No wonder so many women shy at marriage with such ideas abroad!

"A wife is entitled to clothes, pretty clothes, little furbelows, foolish and otherwise, and all the odd change she can find, when she goes through her husband's pockets at night.

"If she isn't—why then, she better not get married. For she can do better than mere household necessities, as a spinster on her own account."

SHOULD BE BUYER.

To which Mrs. James Hardy of Allston, whose husband has recently returned to her after a nine trip away to see the world, retorts:

"A wife should be given the household money to buy her groceries. My husband never does this. He buys them himself.

"A wife should also be given money to dress reasonably well. No woman worthy the name wishes to run her husband into debt for clothes he cannot afford. But more than two gingham suits and two house dresses are due any woman after four years of married life."

Nursed Wounded Husband After Estrangement in England

MRS. HUGH R. FRENCH.

Once divorced, but the old spark of love rekindled by the World War, Captain and Mrs. Hugh Ronald French arrived on the tapland on a short visit to this country.

Captain French is an English army officer. His wife is the daughter of Robert J. Wynne, Postmaster-General under President Roosevelt and one-time American consul at London. Mrs. Wynne was once a great favorite of the late King Edward, who pronounced her "the most beautiful woman in America."

DECREE RESCINDED.

French and Miss Wynne were married in London in 1909. The beautiful American immediately became one of the most popular women in the English social set. In 1913 Mrs. French sued her army officer-husband for a decree. He made no defence and the decree was granted. Later the King's Proctor fought the application to make the decree permanent and the original decree was rescinded.

When the war began Captain French went to the front. His wife became a war nurse. During the conflict Captain French was seriously wounded and returned to England. His wife learned of his injuries and hurried to his side. She nursed him back to health.

GOES BACK TO WIFE.

Recovered from his wounds, Captain French bade his wife good-bye and went back to the front. When the armistice was signed he returned to the wife who had sought to divorce him and they became the same affectionate couple which had won praise from English society during the early days of their marriage.

Mr. Wynne, the former postmaster, also returned on the Lapland.

OFFICIALS PERPLEXED BY WEDDING HASTE

Pittsfield, July 12—Officials on both sides of the New York-Massachusetts State line here are wondering today what prompted the hasty actions of Roger C. Hagar and Miss Iene E. Haisey, now Mr. and Mrs. Hagar.

The pair took out two marriage licenses, one in Massachusetts and the other in New York, got a special Probate Court permit to wed at once, gave false addresses on both licenses and, armed and legally, were married at New Lebanon, N. Y.

BAR MRS. EVANS' FIELD GLASS IN SACCO TRIAL

Court Officer Objects to Hub Woman Looking at Vanzetti During Testimony

Mrs. Glendower Evans, wealthy philanthropist of Brookline, who contributed $2,000 to the defence fund in the Sacco-Vanzetti trial at Dedham, was restrained today by Court Officer Harry G. Studley from looking through a large pair of field glasses at individuals in the court-room.

Francis W. Hawley of Brockton was testifying as a rebuttal witness for the government concerning occupants of an auto he saw in Brockton April 1, 1920. Mrs. Evans had the glasses focused on Sacco and Vanzetti. She said she had no permission from the court, but had used the glasses on a previous day and nothing had been said to her.

The court ordered the jury to disregard Hawley's testimony as against Vanzetti, who Hawley alleged was one of the occupants of the car, when he saw it as it had no bearing on the case.

WAS GOING TO ITALY.

Michael S. Kelly, owner of the 3-K factory at Stoughton, where Nicola Sacco was employed, was the first witness called by the defence.

Kelly identified two letters he sent to Enrico Iacobeli to come to Stoughton and work in his factory during the absence of Nicola Sacco in Italy.

The letters were dated April 9, 1920, and April 12, 1926. The second one said, the "earliest I can see you is Thursday, April 15." The intent of the defence in introducing them was to show that Sacco had made arrangements to go to Italy to see his parents.

Iacobeli testified he called at Sacco's home and talked with Mrs. Sacco about the letters he received. Iacobeli identified a letter he sent to Kelly concerning Sacco's job and the ones he received.

At 9:45 a. m. the defence rested.

The government then recalled Angelo Ricci, section gang foreman, who testified on April 15, 1920, he was working at the Pearl street crossing freight house and heard the sound of shooting. Neither he nor any of his workmen went to the scene.

Ricci said he was working at the freight house with his men when the shots were fired.

Q.—When the shots were fired the men ran? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you say? A.—I said stand where you are. It's only firecrackers. I thought the automobile chizzed by. The men were standing when the shots were fired.

MEN KEPT IN OFFICE.

Q.—Did you go into the crossing? A.—The automobile had gone and I went to my office. My men went there. I wanted to see why they went there. I wanted to see why they went there.

Daniel F. Guerin, Brockton police inspector, identified a cap he took from Sacco's home. The court ruled that this cap would in no way have a bearing on Vanzetti.

During recess the jury viewed the bandits' automobile outside the court-house. Particular attention was paid to how the door opened and shut.

EXPORT DECLINE BODES ILL FOR FARMERS

By International News Service.

Washington, July 12.—Big drops in exports and imports, shown by Secretary Hoover's latest compilations today, reflected accurately the severe money tension which prevails in world trade centres.

As bumper crops are due, it also suggested the imperative need for remedial measures, if possible to prevent the tremendous backing up in American markets of commodities, which will begin to flow from the farms soon to distributing centers already heavily stocked with last year's output.

Today's figures, showing drops of nearly two billion dollars in imports and exports, marked up the heaviest declines in foreign trade suffered by American commerce for several years.

Officials probably were less concerned over the drop in exports from $8,180,000,000 to $6,519,000,000 in the twelve months ended June 30, than they were in the decline of imports from $5,238,000,000 to $3,666,000,000.

CALLAO MAKES PORT WITH ALL WELL

By International News Service.

New York, July 12.—The Munson liner Callao, which for a week had been reported mysteriously missing, steamed into this port today in good condition. Static trouble was responsible for the "silent voyage" of the vessel, according to her master, Captain Thomas W. Sheridan.

The Callao had seventy-four first cabin passengers and $1,000,000 in gold for a New York bank on board. She sailed through peaceful seas, but for days could not send any radio messages.

Among the passengers was Louis Swift, Jr., son of the Chicago packing magnate. He was on crutches, having suffered a broken leg in a fall from his horse at Buenos Ayres.

"YD" Acclaims Its Dancer Mascot Most Beautiful Bathing Girl

Nantasket Beach has seen none fairer this season than the Roslindale girl, according to a host of her friends, who have a challenge to the contrary-minded.

Nantasket Beach and the wide, wide world are challenged by the friends of Miss Kathleen Mahoney—and these include the entire Yankee Division—to produce a more beautiful bathing girl than she.

The Roslindale girl is acclaimed by them as the prettiest on the beach. Face, figure and poise are declared to be near perfection and while she has scores of rivals, her friends insist that none as yet can dispute her election to the title.

DANCING CHARMED YETS.

Miss Mahoney, who was adopted by the Yankee Division in a spontaneous outburst of appreciation of her grace and charm during entertainment at which she danced before the veterans last Winter, is the daughter of Dr. John S. Mahoney of Roslindale.

No popular in the sands is the dancer. She does a bathing suit for its original purpose—swimming. "Adores" swimming, she says. And when its too cold for swimming she readily and skillfully turns to tennis and handball.

Whether the Yankee Division is justified in asserting that their attractive favorite is the most beautiful on the beach is, of course, a matter of opinion. The division sought to recognize beauty after viewing it in more climes than one, as in fact it is.

But when the veterans and a host of Dorchester girls expressed an opinion with a veritable challenge, it is distinctly up to the contrary-minded to produce.

SWIMS AS WELL AS DANCES.

Miss Mahoney swims as well as she dances. Her dancing captivated an entire division in first sight. That there is no call for comparisons with watchful expert.

The deep interest in Miss Mahoney lies in that, among some thousands of New England's finest bathing girls, a legion calmly state that she is the fairest and tell reasons that they must be shown otherwise.

HOOVER CERTAIN BETTER TIMES ARE NEAR

Declares U. S. Has Already "Turned Corner" of Industrial Depression

A great deal of Russian gold is coming to this country, and Massachusetts is getting more of it than any other State.

This statement was made by Herbert C. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, to the Boston American today. Mr. Hoover is here to visit the National Shoe and Leather Exposition and was the guest of Mayor Peters at a midday luncheon.

"Massachusetts is doing more trading with Russia than any other State," said Secretary Hoover, "and already orders have been secured by Massachusetts manufacturers for at least 10,000,000 pairs of shoes. I do not know how large have been the shipments already delivered.

"The goods reach Russia through the port of Riga. Russian gold is not coined and handled by continental bankers, largely by those of Sweden. I imagine the business of your manufacturers has been quite profitable. There is no disposition on the part of this country to hinder trade with Russia, and there could be no embargo on gold coming from continental American bankers.

BARES OPTIMISM.

Secretary Hoover believes general business conditions are improving in Europe, with Belgium making the best strides and Russia the slowest progress. Progress in Germany is greatly affected and subsidized, he declared.

"We have had twelve business depressions since the Civil War, and come out of all of them to better times," the Secretary of Commerce continued, "and we will weather this one all right.

"We have turned the corner already. Better times are the result of our own attitude toward our business, of our courage and our resourcefulness. I think 80 per cent. of our people have learned the necessary lesson and understand that, to hasten a return to an era of good business, we must stop extravagance and reckless speculation, that we must work and produce and increase individual efficiency.

"When this era will come, no one can say, with certainty. Whether it will be this Fall or Winter I don't know, but I do know we have turned the corner of business depression and are on our way to easier times. Credits are becoming easier, exports are increasing, there is a better feeling.

URGES COST ADJUSTMENT.

"Ongoing conditions have improved in some sections, but are still very bad in others. Material and labor costs must be better adjusted, of course, before the housing improvement becomes general.

"Income must seem more. Take the farmer. His income is worth to him now only 67 per cent. of its pre-war value. And the agricultural element comprises 10 per cent. of our population. That is an instance of the disbalance that must be adjusted before the rest of our people can prosper."

STUBBORN CHILD BACK IN ARMS OF MOTHER

Irene Kelly, Who Tried to End Life for Love, Wins Parental Forgiveness

Irene Kelly, the fifteen-year-old Dorchester girl whose mother had her taken into custody as a stubborn child because she attempted suicide for love of a forbidden suitor, was forgiven and welcomed back into the maternal nest today.

Mrs. Catherine Kelly of Leeds street, Dorchester, appeared in Municipal Court and refused to proceed with the prosecution. The girl was with her and they were separated only by best of terms and had their arms entwined.

Mrs. Kelly announced she would give an informal "forgiveness" party for Irene tonight or tomorrow night.

Friends of the family insist that at the time the mother will complete the reconciliation by announcing Irene's engagement to Ralph Cassidy of No. 4 Bowdoin park, Dorchester, an innocent cause of it all.

Miss Kelly took poison tablets after a quarrel with her family in which she stood to have ordered her from Cassidy's company.

Various explanations of the unhappy love affair of the 15-year-old Dorchester miss have been given.

It was at first thought Cassidy had jilted her, but it is now understood that all the opposition came from Mrs. Kelly.

REJECTS GUILTY PLEA IN KABER SLAYING

Ohio Prosecutor Seeks Extreme Penalty on First Degree Murder Charge

By International News Service.

Cleveland, O., July 12.—Attorneys for Mrs. Catherine Eva Kaiser today caused a sensation when the widow accused of plotting the murder of her husband, Daniel Kaiser, wealthy Cleveland publisher, plead guilty to second degree murder with life imprisonment as the penalty.

County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton refused to accept the offer.

At a conference in Judge Hernon's office, attorneys for the defence are said to have submitted their plea. If the chance of the accused woman escaping the death chair, under the evidence.

Hope of Mrs. Kaiser to prove that arsenic found in the organs of the murder victim came from embalming powder was shattered today by the defence's own witness.

Ros Donkis, the undertaker, who had charge of Kaiser's body, and who in direct examination, had testified that three-quarters of a pound of the powder had been sprinkled on the vital organs twenty-four hours before the autopsy, admitted on cross-examination that the first autopsy was held before the undertakers had removed the body and the embalming powder had not been used until Kaiser's stomach had been removed.

The undertaker's testimony opened the defence's battle to save the accused woman.

ACQUITTED GIRL AWAITS 'NEXT GO WITH FATE'

Miss Rusling of Back Bay Seeks New Job and Scores "Mean" Accusers

"I'm neither down nor out, but right in the ring ready for the next go' with fate. I am going to stay right here in Boston and face former Stillman by Fred Beauvais, Canadian Indian guide, who is alleged by the banker to be the father of baby Guy Stillman.

These letters, known as exhibits B and C, and referred to in the decision as 13-A and 13-B, are among a number that have been offered in evidence by the plaintiff, but the others thus far have been excluded.

Mrs. Stillman says she has admitted receiving the letters and Beauvais, persistently denying their authorship, has charged they are forged.

The decision excludes the testimony given by Hubert L. Russell, Buffalo osteopath, who testified regarding confidential information alleged to have been imparted to him by Mrs. Stillman as to the paternity of Guy and her attitude toward the guide.

The fact is noted in the decision that the plaintiff has withdrawn allegations of direct statements by his wife and the guide as to the legitimacy of Guy. It is understood the letters are admitted only insofar as they relate to the alleged relations of Mrs. Stillman and Beauvais and not as to the paternity of Guy.

When the defence opens its case Wednesday and the resumption of hearings before Referee Gleason, photographic copies will be presented of licenses obtained for two automobiles in 1918 and 1919, both used by Florence L. Leeds.

One of the licenses bears the signature of James A. Stillman. The other is signed with the name of Franklyn H. Leeds. The defence will seek to prove that both were obtained by the banker.

A representative of the automobile bureau will be on hand to determine whether the evidence warrants prosecution for false swearing to a license.

John H. Mack, guardian of Guy, said that he does not expect Mrs. Mack to be in Boston when the next of the hearings are resumed. He explained that she will probably remain at their home in Grands de Chicago.

REV. JOHN McG. FOSTER RESIGNS PASTORATE

Rev. John McIlvar Foster, for twelve years rector of Trinity Church, Gainsboro street, has resigned, to become, in Boston he was rector of St. John's Church, Bangor, Me.

Rev. Mr. Foster will present the ecclesiastical head of the diocese of Massachusetts at the meeting of the Bishop William Lawrence at Bar Harbor and Bishop Samuel G. Babcock in Europe.

QUIETLY ROBS STORE AND FLEES IN NIGHT

Alfred Kauff was getting ready to close up his delicatessen store at No. 949 Columbus avenue last night when a man walked in, covered him with a revolver, locked Kauff against the wall, rifled his pockets, looted the cash register and walked out into the night.

The holdup man is reported to have been about five years old and about 5 feet 8 inches tall. He wore a brown suit and a straw hat.

DEFENDS WORKERS IN ELECTRICAL STRIKE

In a letter to the Electrical Contractors' Association Frank R. Sheehan, secretary of Local 104, Electrical Workers' Union, answers the allegation that the men had refused to consider arbitration.

He points out that members of the union were willing to return to work under the conditions in effect prior to January 1, while the difficulties were being arbitrated.

STILLMAN FACES PROBE OF LEEDS AUTO LICENSE

State Official to Determine Whether Former Banker Swore Falsely

Poughkeepsie, July 12.—Referee Daniel J. Gleason has admitted into the record of alimony in Stillman's divorce case two letters alleged to have been written to Mrs. Anne Urquhart Stillman by Fred Beauvais, Canadian Indian guide, who is alleged by the banker to be the father of baby Guy Stillman.

These letters, known as exhibits B and C, and referred to in the decision as 13-A and 13-B, are among a number that have been offered in evidence by the plaintiff, but the others thus far have been excluded.

Mrs. Stillman says she has admitted receiving the letters and Beauvais, persistently denying their authorship, has charged they are forged.

The decision excludes the testimony given by Dr. Hubert L. Russell, Buffalo osteopath, who testified regarding confidential information alleged to have been imparted to him by Mrs. Stillman as to the paternity of Guy and her attitude toward the guide.

The fact is noted in the decision that the plaintiff has withdrawn allegations of direct statements by his wife and the guide as to the legitimacy of Guy. It is understood the letters are admitted only insofar as they relate to the alleged relations of Mrs. Stillman and Beauvais and not as to the paternity of Guy.

When the defence opens its case Wednesday and the resumption of hearings before Referee Gleason, photographic copies will be presented of licenses obtained for two automobiles in 1918 and 1919, both used by Florence L. Leeds.

One of the licenses bears the signature of James A. Stillman. The other is signed with the name of Franklyn H. Leeds. The defence will seek to prove that both were obtained by the banker.

A representative of the automobile bureau will be on hand to determine whether the evidence warrants prosecution for false swearing to a license.

John H. Mack, guardian of Guy, said that he does not expect Mrs. Mack to be in Boston when the next of the hearings are resumed. He explained that she will probably remain at their home in Grands de Chicago.

ADMINISTRATORS OF AMES ESTATE NAMED

SUMMONS GIRLS FOR STEWART INQUEST

Friends of Hotel Suicide to Testify to Knowledge of Her Character

Among the witnesses expected to testify at the inquest to be held in the Municipal Court, Thursday, into the death of nineteen-year-old Dorothy Stewart of Newton Highlands, found in the Hotel Plaza with a bullet through her brain, are several Newton and Somerville girl friends of Miss Stewart.

They will be asked to testify if it is said, as to what they know of the dead girl, who, according to Associate Medical Examiner Brickley, took her own life.

The name of the man believed to have accompanied her to the hotel, and who registered with her as man and wife, is still kept secret by the police.

ATTLEBORO BABY IS FOUND DROWNED

Attleboro, July 12.—After a two hours' search the body of Oscar Emerson, eighteen months old, of Reynolds street, was found in three feet of water in a gully in the sandpit in the back yard of the home. Medical Examiner Charles S. Hoitt pronounced the death due to accidental drowning.

FIGHT REMOVAL OF VICTORY PLANT

Quincy Chamber of Commerce Fears Denby's Order Is Blow to Harbor Development

Learning that Secretary of the Navy Denby has ordered the dismantling of the Victory plant at Squantum, which was built as a repair and construction base at the outbreak of the war at a cost of many millions of dollars, the Quincy Chamber of Commerce and other commercial and industrial organizations of Greater Boston today took steps to prevent the destruction of the yard and the shipment of the machinery to Norfolk, Va.

A year or more ago a special committee from Congress investigated the Victory plant, reporting later that it should be retained as a repair base.

Forest L. Neal, president of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, and representatives of other commercial and industrial organizations of Greater Boston are going in a body to Washington to file formal protest against the action of the Navy Department, on the ground that the removal of the plant would be a severe blow to the development of business on the harbor.

Crash of Lightning Restores Speech to Dumb Woman

The crash of a lightning bolt striking near her home completely cured Mrs. Ida D. Wallstedt, No. 7 Heffernan avenue, Lynn, of a nervous affection which had made her dumb for more than eight weeks, according to physicians and surgeons who examined her.

She was at work in her kitchen when a bolt during the recent storm struck the Sacred Heart School, Robinson street. Her first thought was for her children, asleep in a nearby room, and she rushed in there crying out "My Baby, Oh, My Baby." She has been able to talk naturally ever since.

WORLD LEAGUE OF WOMEN IN SESSION

Vienna, July 12.—The World Congress of the Women's International League of Peace and Freedom was formally opened here today, with delegates present from twenty countries. Miss Jane Addams of Chicago headed the American delegation.

Among the other American women present are Emily Greene Balch, former professor at Wellesley; Mrs. Florence Kelly of New York, representing the Consumers' League; Miss Alice Hunt Hunt of New York and Dr. Anna Louise Strong of Seattle, Wash.

ALLSTON MAN DYING, SHOT BY BANDITS

Police Seek Thieves Who Fatally Wounded Proprietor of Lunch Room

Search is being made today for two colored men who robbed the Fitz lunch room at No. 344 Cambridge street, Allston, early today after firing two shots into the neck and lungs of Edward F. Connolly, the cashier.

Connolly, who is fifty years old, married and lives at No. 2 Akron street, Roxbury, is dying at St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

The hold-up men entered the lunch room shortly after midnight. There were no customers in the restaurant at the time.

Shots were heard by several persons in the vicinity and immediately following the two men were seen to run out of the street toward the Boston & Albany tracks.

William F. Carley and Leo Lyons, both Allston men, who saw the negroes leave the lunchroom, went inside to investigate. The cash drawer was wide open, and some of the change was on the floor. Connolly, the proprietor, was lying in a pool of blood. He lapsed into unconsciousness before he could give any account of the shooting.

HANDS TAKEN FROM QUINCY'S TOWN CLOCK

The frail condition of the hands of the old "town clock" on the belfry of the First Parish Church in City square, Quincy, necessitated their removal by members of Auto Ladder Company No. 1 of the Central fire station. They will be replaced with new hands. The minute hand measured six feet.

FRANCE ASKS REASON FOR IMMIGRATION BAN

Washington, July 12.—The French embassy today called upon the Bureau of Immigration for an explanation of the action by New York immigration inspectors in refusing to admit cabin passengers on the liner Savoie, which arrived in New York yesterday.

The embassy was particularly interested in securing the entrance of Albert Tessan, a New York jeweler, who went abroad last Spring.

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement.

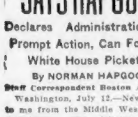
TIME TO SHOW WAR AMNESTY, SAYS HAPGOOD

Declares Administration, by Prompt Action, Can Forestall White House Picketing

By NORMAN HAPGOOD,
Staff Correspondent Boston American.

Washington, July 12.—News comes to me from the Middle West that is unwelcome. The picketing of the White House to call attention to the subject of amnesty that was postponed from April, is now being arranged and will be put through fairly soon.



NORMAN HAPGOOD

When I call the news unwelcome I do not mean to disapprove of the amnesty people. They seem to me to have shown exemplary patience in the face of an unfortunate number of false hopes held out to them. What is unfortunate is that they should be driven to forcing an issue that should have been gotten out of the way long ago.

We have issues enough that are real, necessary and pertaining to times of peace. What good can come of keeping alive this relic of war, to become embittered with delay, and finally to break forth in an unsupressible series of protests, it is indeed difficult to see.

EXAMPLE OF HAYS.

Will Hays, who, as far as I know, has not made any political mistakes at all, showed that he understood this apparently clear principle. Wearing his usual cheerful smile and with his usual active manner, he ever-rode whatever mosa-back objections there were about and took a modern stand on several important and newly controversial subjects.

He got nothing but credit for his intelligence and his courage. The threatened opposition amounted to nothing. He swept away the spy activities of the Postoffice Department. He swept away the censorship of newspapers and magazines. He changed overnight from an anti-union tradition to friendly co-operation with the unions.

Then he went ahead with his other business. He studied economy and efficiency and better morale and everything he touches seems to prosper. He thinks for himself and does not lie awake nights listening for ghost stories that had their origin amid the hatreds and terrors of war.

A DIFFERENT PROCEDURE.

The attorney general started out as if he was going to make an equally bold scrapping of the dead old stuff. He not only gave out statements with that indication, and cast away visitors firm in the belief that he was about to act, but he staged the extraordinary play of having Eugene Debs leave up from Atlanta alone to call on him.

"What good political," everybody said. But they meant what good politics to and so original and dashing a device on which to base the kind of house-cleaning that Mr. Hays has carried out. They did not mean that it would be good politics to send the advertisement all over the country, to be rewarded for it by having the picketing and other protests put entirely out of people's minds, and then for a wholly unexplained reason to let Debs and the other political prisoners swelter all Summer, and very likely some of them die.

At any rate, the plans for picketing have been resumed, as it was inevitable they should be, if the delay was to extend until it gave the impression of a total change of plan. The people who are going to do the picketing have written me about it.

ADMINISTRATION'S CHANCE.

What could I say? I have to be honest with all classes of my fellow citizens who write to me about things that confront them. Regarding the April plan I had taken a sharp opposition to the picketing aspect, on the ground that while American citizens have a perfect right to use peaceable methods of advertising their wrongs, it would be more considerate of a new administration to accept cordially the statements that action within a short time was contemplated.

It is true that since then there has been one important change in the situation. The peace resolution has been passed. Possibly, therefore, the administration is intending to take now a step to which it may have discovered some unannounced difficulties before.

If that is the case it will have plenty of time to forestall the organizing for protest that is just beginning. Such organizing will take some weeks. The heads of the labor unions have to be seen. Delegates from various unions have to be selected. Independent and liberal citizens in different parts of the country are to be asked for their cooperation.

Meantime to get the whole subject out of the way would take about as long as it would take to walk from the Department of Justice to the White House, which in this weather might be ten minutes.

SEEKING OWNERS OF 5 CASES OF BRANDY

Gloucester, July 12.—The police of this city are endeavoring to determine the ownership of five cases of brandy which they seized at Ravenswood Park, the home of the late Mason A. Walton, the hermit of Bond's Hill. From the markings it is believed they have been part of the shipment landed at Jones Creek which was seized by prohibition agents.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Notable Families at Dark Harbor

Mrs. Arthur L. Richmond (Jessie Means) who will make her home next Winter at No. 52 Brimmer street. Mrs. Richmond, whose wedding at the North Shore was one of the important social events, is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur Little of 9 Massachusetts avenue. (Photo by White)

By BETTY ALDEN.

I am told that the month of August will mark the arrival of several well-known families at Dark Harbor, Islesboro, Me. The Allen Forbes of Beacon street are still abroad, but are expected to spend August at the Maine resort. The Harry L. Brooms of Concord will probably be at Dark Harbor next month, as well as the John E. Peabodys. The latter have not gone to Maine early this season according to their custom, owing to the serious illness of Mr. Peabody.

Members of the Magnolia Summer colony, especially guests of the Peabodys, are interested in the recent announcement of the engagement of Miss Lyndell Bunker of Yonkers, N. Y., and Mr. Robert Black of Troy, N. Y. The romance of these two young people found its early beginning at the exclusive North Shore resort, where they have been spending their Summers. Their marriage will take place early in the Fall.

Now that the White Mountain season is well under way, many Bostonians are making tracks northward. Henry L. Shattuck of Exeter street and Donald McKay Frost of Marlboro street are stopping for a few days at the Mt. Washington Hotel on their motor tour of the mountains.

One of the most prominent matrons Summering at the North Shore is Mrs. Marshall Field who has arrived at Beverly Farms from Washington. I hear that Mrs. Field is having her portrait painted by Mr. Philip de Laszlo and has already had the final sitting.

Mrs. Charles Peabody, with her three daughters, all members of the Sewing Circle, has gone abroad to England, where they will spend the balance of the Summer. Mrs. Peabody's husband, Dr. Peabody, the well-known anthropologist, will join his family in August. Dr. Peabody sailed for France in June and has given largely of his time in the reconstruction of that country the past three years.

Mrs. Charles Inches, with her daughter, Louise, of Beacon street, are spending the Summer at the Inches country home in Medfield. They intend to spend a very quiet Summer to rest up for the more strenuous Winter months.

The Rev. John W. Suter and Mrs. Suter of No. 18 Louisburg square are sailing for Europe this week. Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Suter, Jr., are visiting the latter's parents, Dr. and Mrs. William G. Sturgis at Colorado Springs.

Congressmen and Mrs. Louis A. Frothingham of Massachusetts and Washington, D. C., are among the recent arrivals at Hot Springs, Va., where they are stopping at The Homestead.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Russell of Commonwealth avenue, who spent last Summer at Manchester, are again at the North Shore this season, but this year they are at Prides Crossing, where they have the Dressel cottage at Mingo Beach.

* * *

Miss Esther Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cunningham of Milton, has been for several days a guest at Manchester of Miss Frances Dewart, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. William H. Dewart. The Dewart estate at Manchester Cove, near the entrance to Coolidge Point, is known as "Crowhaven."

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. David Cheever, who recently sailed for Europe, have planned to remain abroad until the early Autumn. Their children will be meanwhile with Miss Helen Cheever, Dr. Cheever's sister, in Dedham.

SOCIETY DOINGS IN WASHINGTON CIRCLES

Washington, July 12.—The President and Mrs. Harding, who passed Sunday cruising on the Mayflower, returned to the White House Monday.

Chief Justice Taft and Attorney General Daugherty were entertained informally at dinner by President and Mrs. Harding at the White House.

The French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand will sail Thursday for a brief vacation in Paris.

Dr. Chu Chi Chiem, personal representative of the President of China, has left for Seattle. He will sail for China on Thursday.

Dr. Julio Bianchi, Guatemalan minister, will take this week for a tour of South America.

Mrs. Raymond McCarl, wife of the Comptroller General of the budget, has returned from a brief stay at Atlantic City.

Captain Axel Wallenberg, the Swedish minister, is on a trip through the Middle West.

HUDSON BAY AIR HERO LOSES FIANCEE

On Navy Pay Lieut. Kloor Could Not Support Wife, Says Girl's Mother

New York, July 12.—The romance which resulted from the thrilling escape from death by the three famous naval lieutenants—Kloor, Farrell and Hinton—When the trio were carried in a balloon from Rockaway Point, into the frozen wastes of northern Canada, last December, has been broken.

The engagement of the commander of the balloon, Lieutenant Louis A. Kloor, Jr., and Miss Alexandra Flowerton was announced as soon as the three heroes of the air returned from Moose Factory. Yesterday Mrs. Alexander J. Flowerton, the mother of the pretty young girl, declared the engagement had been broken by mutual agreement. She added:

"I am indeed sorry to announce that the reports of the breaking of the engagement is true. We all think Lieutenant Kloor is a brilliant young man. There is no other man or woman involved.

"The engagement was broken because of the small salary which a naval officer receives. My daughter Alexandra, has always been accustomed to a living that should not be continued on a naval lieutenant's salary."

Lieutenant Kloor, at the Rockaway Air Station, last night verified Mrs. Flowerton's announcement.

ESCAPED SOMERVILLE CONVICT STILL AT LARGE

No trace has been found of James F. Finn in the Union Square section of Somerville, who climbed through a window in the guard room of the Somerville police station and escaped after he had been given a ten-day sentence in the House of Correction at East Cambridge for drunkenness. Lieutenant Kennedy, Sergeant Kenney and a squad of police searched the city for Finn, when his absence was discovered, but were unsuccessful.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. ABBY F. ROLFE

The funeral of Mrs. Abby Frances (Winchester) Rolfe, a well-known resident of Concord and for nearly half a century one of the leading workers in the State for prohibition, was held this afternoon in her late home, No. 8 Middle street, Concord. The Rev. William A. Batt of Concord officiated. Burial was in the family lot in Sleepy Hollow cemetery, Concord.

CHURCH JANITOR SUES FOR WIFE'S LOST LOVE

Harry J. Grover of Somerville has been sued for $10,000 by Fred W. Byther of Boston, who alleges that Grover alienated the affections of his wife, Minnie L. Byther. Papers have been filed in the Middlesex Superior Court by Attorney John J. Mercier. Grover is a conductor; Byther, whose residence is given as Southdale, is a janitor at the Christian Science Church.

SAVIOR OF LOST BATTALION DIES PENNILESS

Emaciated Body of John Munson Identified in New York City Morgue

New York, July 12.—By mere chance the emaciated body of a young man lying on a slab in the city morgue, with a tag revealing his name as "John Munson" and the cause of his death as "tuberculosis," was saved today from Potter's field.

Instead, preparations are now under way to lay him to rest in the National cemetery at Arlington, D. C., with military honors. Distinguished generals will be there, and the bugler will sound taps as war veterans, uniformed and decorated, lower their comrade's coffin into the grave.

For "John Munson, thirty-one years old, boatman," who died Saturday in Bellevue Hospital of the white plague, is none other than the man who saved "the lost battalion."

Friendless, forgotten, broke and in the last stage of the dread disease, he had had just enough strength to drag himself to the hospital.

Pawn tickets verified the identification after a veteran who was there in the death trap with Major Charles W. Whittlesey's third battalion of the 307th Infantry, 77th Division, had read of a "John Munson" being at the morgue.

Munson was the runner who got through to headquarters after all others who had tried had been killed or wounded. He is one of the four doughboys who got the Medal of Honor. Forgotten in life, he will be honored in death.

Former Patrolman Bernard Steinhauser, undergoing sentence of six months on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Louis Quitt of Medford, is working in the sewing room of the Deer Island House of Correction, according to a statement by Institutions Commissioner T. C. O'Brien.

O'Brien denied that any special privileges had been granted Steinhauser, or that the former policeman had been allowed to cross the Shirley Gut Friday night to spend several hours with his wife at Winthrop.

For a time Steinhauser was assigned to the boat detail at the prison, but following an attempt to throw a note to his wife as he was shoving off from the Winthrop side of the Gut, he was transferred, and at his own request sent to the sewing room.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES

Large, Red and Very Sore, Cuticura Healed.

"My face broke out with large, red pimples that were very sore. After a while the pimples got scaly and itched so badly that I had to scratch them. I couldn't sleep at night and my face was awfully disfigured.

"I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using them the pimples started to disappear. I bought more, and after using one cake of Soap and one box of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Robert Clark, Jr., R. F. D. 2, Branford, Conn., Sept. 16, 1920.

WONDERS HOW IRISH PEOPLE ARE ABLE TO BEAR CONDITIONS

"That's interesting," says O'Callaghan. "So God is dead. Did you kill Him trying to escape?"

There was a County Kerry man (from Listowel) present. He took it up. "Trying to escape? Seven pounds a week they draw from a government that won't or can't pay its honest debts for warring on defenceless men and women—and children sometimes. There are fighting I. R. A. men roaming like red deer over the hills of the South and West and never a brave Black and Tan that can be coaxed from behind their armored walls into the open fields to meet them.

"'Tis up to their armored cars and steel-plated lorries and machine guns the lads of the hills must go with only hand rifles to fight them. But let the men with their £7 a week pay overtake defenceless men along the road, and 'tis then you will see them in brave action.

"There were four lads from near me and Limerick County border and they were walking along the road after chapel services. A lead of Black and Tans came roaring along the same road in their lorry of steel, and they called on our lads to halt. And they halted, and were questioned after the usual insulting fashion of that special breed of beast. Looking for information they were, thinking no doubt in the queer way they reason that if you frighten men sufficiently they will do your will before they will be further frightened.

Told to Move Along and Are Then Shot in the Back

"But they got nothing out of these four lads. 'Get along now—get to hell along now,' says the officer to them, and the poor lads got along, but hardly were their backs turned than the volleys followed. And killed three of them. The fourth one got away and told the story. It was because one of the boys lived, maybe, that the official report said that the young fellows tried to ambush them. Ambush with not so much as one revolver to the four of them!"

"Do the Irish papers tell the inside of the thing?"

"You know of press plants being raided already—and of the threats—and driving of press men from the country, and of one actual killing and several more maimed for life since you have been here yourself, haven't you? How much of the truth of Ireland do your own papers print that aren't under the threat of their great military machine and the will of beasts gone crazy in their lust of blood?"

This was merely a casual talk with a few Irishmen of standing at a hotel luncheon in Dublin. Some of the indictments against the Crown by these men—protestant men all—were horrible. They brought up no ancient wrongs, but gave names and dates and locations of present-day atrocities, with every fact at their finger tips.

"How long since those three young men you speak of were shot down?" I asked the Kerry man.

"Just before I came away—not two weeks ago. And their names were Pat Walsh of Coolard, Pat Dalton of Athea, Jerry Lyons of Dunagh."

Offer Records of Killings to Be Given to General Macready.

There was passion, but no wild talk. They spread incident after incident before me with the invitation to take their records of the same to General Macready if I should be going to see him and ask him what he had to say to them.

"Don't the I. R. A. ever kill unarmed men?"

"They do. They kill spies—yes. They couldn't keep up the great fight they are making for another week against the world of English gold if they didn't kill them. Every warring nation in the world has said that quick death is the proper punishment for spies. They will continue to kill spies—relentless, and you have the right notion of it in that."

After lunch my friend of the morning took me for a walk around the city streets. We passed City Hall. The military had taken it over and now it had sandbags and barbed-wire banked before and wrapped around it. The Dublin Aldermen do their business now in the Mansion House, which is the Mayor's residence, and every now and then the military raid their meetings in the hope of capturing some man who has been duly elected by the citizens, but who is on the run from the Crown forces. It is a merry life.

I had a look at one of the several military gates to Dublin Castle (the seat of English government in Ireland). Sandbags, barbed wire, scores of soldiers outside, some with rifles thrust out of windows of a house near the gate.

"Those fellows look as if they expected some wild I. R. A. man might any moment leap up at him from the street."

"I. R. A. men have done wilder things than that——," said my companion. "They've taken a captured lorry in and out of Dublin Castle—in through their guarded gates, in past machine guns and armored cars, and past more military a hundred of them—gone inside, got papers they were after and come safe away. And you know of their capturing that armored car the other day right here in the streets of Dublin and going in and out of that fortress of a Mountjoy prison and coming safely away."

(Before I have done with Ireland I want to tell the amazing story of that Mountjoy exploit. And I want to say here right now that these Irish Republican Army men over there are every day pulling stuff that is going to save me from even exercising my imagination when later I may wish to do some fiction stuff. But I will get along now with the record of this Dublin day.)

Amazing Defiance of British Shown in Mountjoy Prison Exploit

There must be 15,000 or 20,000 military in and around Dublin. There was no counting the armored cars (which are small tanks except that they have autocar wheels instead of caterpillar treads). The armored lorries, tear through the streets, and whoever was in the way of them had to get out. They took a wheel off a baker's cart and did not even look back to see how badly hit he was.

The men in the lorries had pretty generally the look of men who feared that any minute something violent would happen to them. They were armed with rifle or revolver, sometimes with both, and they peered out, sometimes calmly, but mostly in plain fear or exaggerated nonchalance.

"When the Black and Tans first came to Dublin," said my friend, "they acted as if it was a great lark they had before them. They strolled through the streets with their rifles and revolvers, and arrogantly, contemptuously they gazed at us. Remember that in Dublin it is from two to fifteen years penal servitude, or in the war area it is death—to be caught with a revolver, a bomb, or even three or four loose cartridges in your possession or on your premises.

"Take a people so deprived of the means of resistance and give a Crown man with a loaded rifle in his hands authority to go as far as he liked and no punishment ever to be meted out to him for what he might do—not even if it is cold-blooded murder—and these Black and Tans recruited largely from the lowest, quite often from the criminal classes—you can imagine how they acted.

"Conditions here became intolerable—that first month or so was hard to put up with. The I. R. A. took the matter in hand.

HOW ENGLISH RULE IS KEPT IN ERIN, AND ITS ENFORCER

GENERAL SIR NEVIL MACREADY

At right is one of the homes at Middletown, County Cork, destroyed in reprisal for the killing by the Sinn Fein of one soldier.

The bomb throwers came into being. Young lads they are mostly, eighteen or nineteen years of age, quick to think and act and afraid of nothing. They soon drove the brave Black and Tans to the cover of their steel-sided lorries and tanks as you see them now."

Unarmed Soldiers Perfectly Safe in Dublin Streets While They Behave Themselves.

Presently—we were back on O'Connell street—I saw half a company of soldiers in steel hats and with rifles proceeding up the street in skirmish formation. Behind them was an armored car covering their rear, with men at the machine guns. The marching men were peering from side to side and ahead.

That was all right—a common sight. But here was the queer thing—a common sight—and could happen only in Ireland, probably. There were the worried armed men deploying through the street, and on the sidewalks abreast of them, on both sides of the street, were soldiers of that same outfit, but with fatigue caps and swagger sticks instead of steel helmet and rifles, and they were sauntering along singly or in groups, smiling, chatting, and apparently with not a care for the moment in the world."

"Any unarmed soldier is safe on the streets of Dublin," explained my friend, "if he behaves himself of course. Any soldier who behaves himself is pretty safe in any part of Ireland. Our policemen here are unarmed, too, you will notice. You haven't heard of any Dublin police man being killed since their arms were taken from them.

"And every one of the old armed Dublin force killed was killed for a good reason. An unarmed soldier or Dublin policeman is safer in the streets of Dublin than a citizen. Safer, yes! You see when a Black and Tan lorry is bombed and they begin their excited shooting into the passing people on the footwalks, the uniforms of the soldiers and police save them from being picked off."

By and bye we had tea; and while at that a man came along and spying my host said: "Hulloh! I heard there was an ambush near your house today."

"There was. I was just stepping into my doorway after leaving Mr. Connolly when it happened. About forty yards away it was. I hurried over when the bullets had stopped flying. There were six wounded—three women. Only two hospital cases and but one dangerous. Another doctor and myself looked after them."

"Why didn't you tell me of the ambush?" I asked.

"Why, I never thought of it."

"Can't Coax Englishmen Over the Hedges"

We went then to have tea in a well-known restaurant, where I was introduced to a man who was on the run, who told of an experience he had in that same restaurant about two weeks before this. "I was in here—on the run then, yes. I had my nephew, Padhric, with me for a bit of lunch. He had with him another I. R. A. lad, about his own age—nineteen.

"It was just after his older brother, Tom, was killed in a skirmish in County Clare. Padhric was in for a little recreation after a long run of fighting in the hills. We were hardly in our seats when three policemen came in. After a time I began to notice them looking furtively over at our table. I began to grow nervous.

"Padhric," I says, "I think I'll get out. I think those policemen know me."

"Don't worry," says Padhric, smiling. "It's us and not you they're looking at. Last evening, Dinnie and I here—we stuck up the three of them and took their revolvers off them. We thought they would come in handy when we went back to the boys."

"What did the policemen do?"

"Nothing. They were more nervous than I was. After a while I says to Dinnie: 'You must find it rough out there in the hills.'

"'Oh, it's rough enough at times,' he answered, 'But it's a great life, too. I don't know how I will get along at all when this war is over.'

"Those are the fighting lads that the English military are up against," said my friend. "They started this war with their bare hands, taking their first rifles off men on patrol; and now, perfectly content to meet armored cars, lorries, machine guns, airplanes and overwhelming numbers with rifles and revolvers from behind hawthorne hedges. Their only complaint is that they can't coax the Englishmen over the hedges."

Black and Tans Derisively Called "The Chivalry of England"

At my friend's house that evening, as it came near curfew time, I asked the question: "What will happen me if I get caught out after curfew?"

"You will be held up."

"And then?"

And my host answered: "General Lawson once asked that same question in the presence of Doctor Gogarty, who is a great Dublin wit, and Gogarty replied: 'Why nothing much will happen you, General, except you will probably have your pockets picked by the Chivalry of England.'

("The Chivalry of England," explained my friend, "is what some benighted public woman in the wilds of London once termed the Black and Tans.")

I was stepping on toward my hotel when a volley rang out from around the corner behind me. There were quite a few people, mostly young, stepping briskly along the same as myself. Some turned, as I did, to see what the shots meant; others paid no attention, but quickened their pace; a few broke into a run.

A lorry with Black and Tans shot into view from the side street behind us, dashed across ourfront and out of sight up the side street on the other side.

I ran back to the corner to see what had happened on the scene of the firing. Nothing had happened. "They had a notion to fire a few shots from the lorry and walmost there when I heard a few more shots, this from down the street near the O'Connell monument. A few rifle shots came waing up the street. I stepped briskly on to my hotel doorway; moment later, a young fellow threw himself off his bicycle in front of us and ran into our hotel doorway.

Dublin Lads Attack Black and Tans With Paving Stones

"Soomilitary—off duty, of course—were waing with girls," explained the young fele—"and three or four of our lads didnlike it. And told the girls and the soldiess much, and a fight followed. And no great harm done them—only lads were holding their own. They are repairing the street belo there and loose stones began to fly, and yet no great harm till lorry came along and began shooting right and left at our chs."

ICE CREAM CONE TAX REPEAL DEMANDED

of supply and demand cause them to come down. We can sell all the ice cream sodas we can make at 22 cents."

ARBITRARY ATTITUDE.

Other big dealers when interviewed expressed the same arbitrary attitude.

Chairman Hultman's letter demanding a reduction in prices will be distributed throughout the State, through the offices of the various Mayors. At accompanying letter asks the Mayors to advise the commission if conditions in their respective cities justify the circulation of the reduction letter, and if so, to furnish the commission with the name of all dealers upon whom notice is served.

Figures at the offices of the commission show that since the high peak of retail food prices in July of last year there has been a decline to date of 37.5 per cent. Ice cream and soft drinks, it is stated, are made from the foodstuffs in which this decline has taken place.

Representative Hinos' letter to the Massachusetts members of Congress follows:

USE TAX AS PRETEXT.

"The statewide campaign fostered by the great metropolitan dailies, which is now being waged to end the orgy of profiteering in ice cream cones in Massachusetts, is hindered by the tax on cones which the dealers are using as a pretext for extorting extravagant prices from the children.

"Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life, finds by investigation that mixtures costing from three to five cents are being sold for fifteen and twenty cents. Overhead and the war tax of the dealers are the only excuses Mr. Hultman has exploded the overhead argument. The tax will remain. Removal of the tax would be the last straw and would break the back of the exorbitant prices.

"Ice cream served at restaurants is not subject to the war tax because it is classified as food—leading medical authorities assert that ice cream cones are an essential food for children especially during the present heat wave in Massachusetts.

JUSTICE TO CHILDREN.

"Justice to the children demands that cones be as free from tax as ice cream served as dessert in high priced hotels and restaurants. If the latter is a food surely cones are necessary for the children.

"The people of Massachusetts demand that their representatives in Congress move heaven and earth to have cones removed from the tax list. They demand it in the name of their little ones. They demand that the ice cream brigands be curbed and that their children be given at least as much consideration as dredging projects in unknown and non-navigable western creeks. They want action."

FIRST VIOLATION OF ARMISTICE IN ULSTER

Belfast Reports Firing Twice During Night, but No Casualties Ensue

Dublin, July 12. — The Sinn Fein peace delegation, headed by Eamon De Valera, left for London today. Thousands of persons paraded the streets, singing and cheering and waving flags. There were vociferous shouts of "Hurrah for the Republic!"

London, July 12.—The first violation of the Irish armistice was reported today from Ulster.

A Central News dispatch from Belfast said that firing broke out during the night, but that there were no casualties. Compared with Saturday and Sunday night, last night was comparatively quiet in the city.

Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster, was due at Belfast today bearing a message from Premier Lloyd George advising the Unionists and their sympathizers against demonstrations that are likely to imperil Irish peace.

General Jan Christian Smuts, premier of South Africa, revealed that he had been invited by Premier Lloyd George to act as chairman of the proposed Irish peace parley in London, but he refused. General Smuts said he had booked steamship passage for South Africa, leaving England July 29, but would cancel it if he found that his presence was needed here.

Eamon De Velara, President of the Irish Republic, and the other members of the Sinn Fein peace delegation are expected here tomorrow. They will be the guests of local Sinn Feiners.

Following the first meeting with Premier Lloyd George on Thursday, De Valera and his colleagues probably will meet the Ulsterites in discussing arrangements for the peace parley.

WILL COMMEMORATE BATTLE OF MARNE

The Society of the Third Division, A. E. F., Boston Branch No. 11, will hold a reunion and dinner at the Quincy House, July 14, in commemoration of the anniversary of the second battle of the Marne. Major General Clarence R. Edwards, Governor Cox, Mayor Peters and members of World War veteran societies have been invited to attend.

To Seize Land for School

Lawrence, July 12. — Unanimous vote was taken by the Lawrence City Council to seize, by eminent domain, all land necessary for the construction of the new high school addition. The property to be taken includes tenements on Haverhill and Oak streets. Monday, July 25, has been set as the date of a hearing to be given to determine land damages.

FRANCE ACCEPTS DISARMAMENT INVITATION

Briand's Announcement Greeted With Great Applause in Chamber of Deputies

London, July 12.—It was understood in government circles today that Japan was sending a note formally accepting President Harding's invitation to an international conference. A report was current that President Harding might invite Germany and Russia to the conference on account of France's objection to disarming unless those two Powers likewise agree to disarm.

Paris, July 12.—Premier Briand in behalf of France today accepted President Harding's invitation to an international conference to discuss disarmament.

Announcement that France accepted was contained in a speech delivered by the Premier in the Chamber of Deputies. It was received with terrific applause.

After informing the Chamber that France was in receipt of the official offer from the American President, Premier Briand said:

"France has readily accepted the proposal in order to show the government's desire for peace.

"I want to thank the American executive for having thought of France, thereby rendering homage to her pacific spirit.

"France is resolutely determined to find means of limiting armaments. Out of this proposed conference perhaps will come agreements which will guarantee the future peace of the world.

"France also has an interest in the Pacific which we must not neglect.

"We trust that the Chamber of Deputies will approve the government's acceptance of the noble appeal of President Harding in order to give France that security which is her right."

According to the Matin, Premier Briand plans to attend the Washington conference in person.

The chamber quickly gave its formal approval of the Premier's action. There was no dissent.

Pope Endorses Harding's Plea

Rome, July 12.—President Harding's invitation to the big powers for an international conference to discuss disarmament and Far East problems, has created an excellent impression at the Vatican.

It was learned from an authoritative source today that Pope Benedict XV. is preparing a document for public circulation encouraging the idea. It was pointed out that the Holy See of the Roman Catholic Church has been a powerful supporter of disarmament.

CONTROL AUTOS NEAR CHILDREN, URGES CLARK

Safety League Secretary Demands Drivers Assume All Responsibility

A demand that auto drivers be compelled to bring their cars under absolute control in passing districts where children congregate, and that drunken drivers be sent to jail, was made yesterday by Secretary Philip M. Clark of the Highway Safety League.

By the strictest enforcement of these two suggestions the death list can be materially decreased, he said.

URGES BURDEN ON DRIVERS.

"In going through crowded districts or in passing any spot where children are by the roadside," said Mr. Clark, "it is absolutely essential that the driver check his speed to a point where he can bring his car to a stop at the slightest warning.

"It is absolutely his duty to recognize the fact that children cannot be held to the standard of judgment required of adults and the entire burden of avoiding accident should be on the driver.

"I am inclined to think that accidents have reached such a stage that probably anyone who drives after drinking at all should be called to account. In a case where the driver is actually drunk, he should be given a jail sentence."

TODAY'S BLACKLIST.

Fresh From Paris

PARIS, France.

THE ins and outs of the Parisian silhouette are many, though perhaps not more numerous than its ups and downs. Recall the outline—bouffant one day, slender the next, and the heights and depths of the skirt. Lately the ride has risen and the hat has become involved. No longer may a brim widen to stave off the devastating sunbeam; in fact, no longer may there be a brim at all, as the hats above will prove. Instead, a snug little crown of shiny black straw is extended to cover the forehead and ears, and there is an end of the matter. Trimming! Strands of uncurled ostrich rising from the centre crown and sweeping the shoulders, or disks of dull black bakolite worn over the ears after the fashion of the demure Chinese maiden; nothing more. It may be because Paris is ready for anything that so many odd things happen to Paris.

FROCKS of lace vie with capes of the same for Summer weather in Paris. At the left blond lace over black satin—a particularly smart combination—achieves, by means of gathered fulness and a low-placed waist line, a chic boufancy of skirt. Crushy girdle and rippling end are of cream satin. The other alternative, shown at the right—black lace over white satin—is correspondingly smart and equally popular. The cape in question, a two-tiered affair, uses crushed lace to simulate a collar.

'4 HORSEMEN' FILM MOVES TO GLOBE THEATRE

The photoplay made from Vincente Blasco Ibanez's story, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," opened at the Globe Theatre yesterday, coming to that house from Tremont Temple in order to continue its Boston run.

This is the eleventh week in Boston of this really remarkable photoplay which has enjoyed great popularity, and now, in the very midst of Summer, is proving such a strong drawing attraction that it is surprising the moving to a second auditorium so handsomely, a long run in the Globe Theatre is assured.

In its new home the production in entirety is retained, including a large orchestra playing appropriate accompanying music which greatly enhances appreciation of the photoplay. It is a production of merit and interest, action charged with drama, and is such a true romance, with its admixture of fine sentiment and volume of action, that its attributes are generous in extreme.

Other Theatres

ORPHEUM THEATRE—The warm weather proved no hindrance to the large and enthusiastic audiences that attended Loew's Orpheum Theatre yesterday and witnessed one of the best bills of the season. The vaudeville is of exceptional merit and included such reputable performers as Reese and Edwards; Hilton sisters; McNally and Ashley; Crescent Comedy Four; Henshaw and Avery, and King brothers. The topline photoplay afforded excellent entertainment. It was the first Boston showing of David Powell, in "Mystery Road." The remainder of the screen features included pictorial doings of world events and a very funny Harold Lloyd comedy.

MODERN AND BEACON—An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth—the old Mosaic code of ethics—was called to play yesterday in the Wesley Ruggles production "Over the Wire," in which Alice Lake stars, and thrilled the full-house audience which witnessed the first performance of this Metro picture at the Modern and Beacon Theatres.

Laughs and thrills were well combined in "A Kiss in Time." Wanda Hawley is the star of the piece, and it is one of her most successful comedies. "A Kiss in Time" might be called a peachy comedy, for besides featuring this prettiest of blondes, who is of the peaches and cream type, the best scenes are laid in a peach orchard in full bloom. Max Bennett comedy, "Call the Cook," is also on the bill.

BOSTON THEATRE—In "The Big Town Roundup," Tom Mix, at the Boston Theatre this week, has achieved another bull's eye with public approbation. There is an interesting and entertaining continuity, based on William McLeod Raine's story of the same name. Mix has a fine supporting company, including Ora Carewe, Harry Dunkinson, Laura La Plant, Gilbert Holmes, Wilbur Buckley, Billy Elmer and William Crinley.

Plays That Remain

CECIL LEAN BIG FEATURE OF KEITH BILL

Musical Comedy Star and His Partner, Cleo Mayfield, Offer Splendid Act

Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield, popular musical comedy stars, were the stellar attractions of an excellent program at Keith's Theatre last night. They presented a new act called "Rehearsing," which brought generous applause from the audience.

Another feature of the program was Nita Bilbanita, favorite dancer of Spain, who made her first appearance in the United States last night. The senorita entertained the audience with old and new Spanish dances, accompanied with native music.

Bert and Betty Wheeler presented a lively sketch entitled "Bits of Everything." Charles Olcott and Mary Ann treated the audience to a bright musical offering entitled, "Charlie's Songs."

Bud and Jack Pearson entertained with some clever dancing, showing some of the latest dance steps. Fred Allen, popular comedian, furnished some laughs with his comedy, "Boro 1894." Harry Hayden and Company presented a romantic comedy, "The Love Game."

The Burns Brothers, a pair of athletes, mingled feats with laughter and produced some excellent entertainment. The usual Topics of the Day and Pathe Weekly completed a well balanced Mid-Summer program.

Moseley's on the Charles

The big feature of the season at Moseley's attractive pavilion on the Charles at Spring street, West Roxbury, will be the "Battle of Music" which occurs Thursday night, when the National Jass Band will play at one end of the hall and Sheridan's orchestra at the other. Both these organizations are famed for remarkable dance music, and the contest should prove very interesting. Incidentally it means continuous dancing for those who love to keep on indefinitely without stopping. Moseley's pavilion is enjoying the biggest year in its history, and its policy of strict decorum and refusal to admit objectionable persons is responsible for its popularity.

Sun-Kist Girls

One of the most remarkable engagements in the history of vaudeville is announced for B. F. Keith's Theatre next week, when Fenchon and Marco, stars of "Sun-Kist," the big musical revue which created such a sensation at the Sam S. Harris and the Globe Theatres, New York, will be the headliners. Fenchon and Marco will bring with them a bakers' dozen of the famous chorus of Sun-Kist California beauties, and five entire scenes from their revue.

It is the first time on record that whole scenes from a big Broadway success have been taken bodily, cast, stark, chorus and all, and placed in vaudeville before such a production closed its run. "Sun-Kist" goes on tour again in six weeks.

Free Air Circus at Revere

The vast crowds which visited Revere Beach, New England's favorite seashore resort, completely referred to as the "Meeca of Millions," witnessed a series of sensational aerial stunts on top of an airplane, performed by Jerry Hudson, a daredevil performer in his line of work. These performances are free to all those who visit this popular playground and are given twice daily at 4 and 8:30 p. m.

Paragon Park

The big cabaret show in Paragon Park Palm Garden is declared by critics to be the best ever given in this famous institution. Under the management of Reese and Golden the park and restaurant is strictly up-to-date. There is a multitude of attractions, including the Daredevil Greggs, who pass in the air in autos, and the usual congregation of free acts and shows which make a visit to the Park memorable.

FIRE LOSS IN STATE LAST YEAR IS THIRD LARGEST

Massachusetts suffered last year the third greatest fire loss in her history, a loss exceeded only in the years of the Chelsea and Salem conflagrations. State Fire Marshal George C. Neal today reported the total loss by fires in 1920 was $12,257,037, an increase of $1,176,110 over the preceding year. There were 6,111 fires. Of these, 51 were incendiary and 473 of unknown origin. In 1914, the year of the Salem fire, total fire loss was $26,194,270. In 1908, the year of the Chelsea fire, the total was $21,539,166.

FORMER SOUTH BOSTON TEACHER TO BE BURIED

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Miss Agnes G. Golden, former principal of the Shurtleff School, South Boston. The funeral will be held with requiem mass at St. Anne's Church, Wayeland.

EDWARDS TAKES ACTION TO AID VETERANS

General Visits Governor and Legion Officials in Behalf of Service Men

Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, with his staff, visited the office of Governor Cox and later went to the headquarters of the American Legion where he held a conference with Department Commander James T. Duane, National Vice-Commander Thomas J. Banulgan and Adjutant Leo A. Spillane.

The visit was in the interest of the wounded and disabled veterans and to help former service men who are among the army of unemployed.

General Edwards, accompanied by Mrs. Edwards and members of his staff, will soon make a tour of the hospitals of the State where wounded men are under treatment and will offer words of cheer to those who served overseas.

When the general entered the department headquarters about fifty veterans were waiting in the room of the employment division, and the commanding officer of the First Army area was surprised at the large number of men out of employment.

CAN OBTAIN RELEASE.

Referring to the order of the War Department to reduce the number of enlisted men, he said that any mother or father who was desirous of having their son discharged from the service could do so by visiting the army headquarters, providing the enlisted man had made an application for release.

General Edwards advised all men in the service and parents not to act too hastily at present because of the business conditions.

He said it was the duty of the people of the country to aid those unfortunates in the hospitals who have been incapacitated by their service and every attention should be paid them.

TO WORK WITH LEGION.

He said he is prepared to furnish bands for concerts at the various institutions where they are now confined and working with officers of the legion and auxiliary he will do all in his power to make the lives of these men happier.

Governor Cox was not at the State House, but the former commander of the Yankee Division was greeted by Herman A. McDonald, secretary to the Governor, who served as a captain in the 101st Field Artillery.

General Edwards was accompanied by Colonel M. G. Spinks, lieutenant Colonel W. G. Sweeny, Lieutenant-Colonel W. B. Burtt and Lieutenant H. V. Nichols as aids.

LEXINGTON CHURCH PLANS LAWN PARTY

The annual lawn party of St. Bridget's Catholic Church of Lexington will be held on the church lawn, Saturday afternoon and evening, July 16. The Rev. Peter J. Conlon, curate, will be the active head of the affair.

NUXATED IRON

Helps make rich, red blood and revitalize weak nerves

YOU MAY BE A BETTER MAN AT 45, THAN THE YOUTH OF 25

If you keep your blood rich in iron to give you plenty of "stay there" strength and endurance.

In an account of a severe mountain climbing trip, a New York newspaper states that 29 percent of those who accomplished that feat were 44 years and over. It is therefore shown that you may be a better man at 45 than the husky stripling of 25 if you take care of yourself and keep your blood filled with iron. Prize fighters, wrestlers and athletes have learned the value of plenty of plain organ foods to their training so such a diet helps supply their blood with iron. Nature put plenty of iron in the blood of grass, fruit and vegetables to enrich your blood, but modern methods of cookery throw all these things away—hence the alarming increase in recent years of Anaemia—iron starvation of the blood, with its debilitating weakness, nervousness and other attendant ills. If you are not strong and well, if you lack bodily and mental vigor, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration or until you are weakened condition you contract some germ disease, but start enriching your blood like NUXATED IRON. It aids to help enrich your blood and revitalize your worn out exhausted nerves. Organic Nuxated Iron is the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. You can obtain it if you wish. It often increases your bodily and mental vigor in two weeks' time, and you will be surprised and delighted with the results. If you do not obtain entire satisfactory results, Beware of substitutes. Ask for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. At all druggists.

HENRY ELIONSKY (left), world's long-distance swimming champion, is now training for his 100-mile swim from Brighton Beach, L. I.

MISS AMELIA GADE (right), who swam around Manhattan Island, will attempt to swim English Channel.

IT'S YOUR MOVE, NEXT! Here is a bizarre style for the woman who insists upon being "different." The evening wrap is fashioned of evergold metal ribbon combined with black velvet ribbon. (K. & H.)

THE FIRST SHALL BE LAST! Chief Buffalo Bear and his wife, Sioux Indians of North Dakota, have asked the President to set aside one day in memory of the red braves who fought in the war. Shown leaving White House. (W. W.)

NOPE! 'Tisn't our old friend "Bill" Bryan. Just William B. Prize of Lincoln, Neb., now attending Woodmen of America convention in N. Y. Has been taken for Bryan scores of times. (K. & H.)

STARLIGHT! Tallulah Bankhead, who spurned social life to become successful actress, York. (Key.)

OIL AND STEEL! The U. S. S. Cleveland, ordered to Mexico to protect American oil interests, is now busily cruising up and down outside the three-mile limit at Tampico. Manned by 265 men. (U. & U.)

BODY AND DANCE POEMS! Gladys Stansbury was sickly and anemic until she tried dancing. Observe the result. She is but 14 years old and a native of Portland, Ore., where she is a leading dancer and swimmer. Prominent in sports of the Multnomah Athletic Club. (U. & U.)

ALOHA OE! Bessie Love, petite film flickerer, is off for the South Seas to make a picture. First to actually "go there" to make Polynesian stuff.

POISE! The pose may not be graceful, but it has made Mlle. Langlen woman's tennis champion of world. Sails shortly for these shores to cross racquets with our women stars. (Central.)

OUCH, MY SHOULDERS! No longer will fair white arms shrink from the touch after a heavy sunburn now that the Alpin violet ray lamp has removed its terrors. Acting on the theory that "like cures like," physicians at the Brand Street Hospital, N. Y., are using a lamp that kills bacteria and heals the wounds. Dr. W. J. Gibson (left) treating a patient. OH YOU SATURDAY NIGHT! Here is the compulsory bath on the old convict ship Success, anchored in the Hudson River, N. Y. A violent flogging usually proceeded immersion in the tub, open wounds making the pain almost unbearable. Oh, yes, that's Sidney Nelson, a chorine, trying it out. But the water has been heated and perfumed. Her friends would like to try it, but, gosh, there's no room. (Key.)

HERE COMES THE BRIDE! One can almost hear the music while gazing at this picture. But guess again. The big white object over the young woman is not a bridal bell, nor anything like that ringer of joyous news. It's a newly invented parachute for civilian flying. The inventor, E. H. Calthrop (shown at left), says parachute will open under almost all conditions. (Int.)

HE'S GETTING BETTER EVERY DAY SAYS HALEY

Dorchester Citizen Had Suffered for Years of Stomach Trouble Before He Got Tanlac.

"I've just now finished my first bottle of Tanlac, but I'm already almost entirely relieved of a case of stomach trouble that had bothered me for years," said A. J. Haley, 24 Ripley Road, Dorchester, Mass.

"For years I was troubled with indigestion. No matter how little I ate, I would bloat all up with gas, and feel heavy, distressed and uncomfortable for hours. I also suffered from heart burn, and nights after eating supper I often suffered so much I didn't dare go to bed for hours, for if I did I would get so sick I couldn't get up. Often the gas pressed against my heart so bad it caused fearful pains through my chest, and I just suffered agony.

"My wife's uncle, a minister, recommended Tanlac so highly that I decided to try it; and the results have been splendid. Why I hardly feel a touch of indigestion now, and I believe my troubles will soon be entirely gone; for I am still taking Tanlac and getting better every day. Tanlac is great, and I'm glad to tell others about it."

Indigestion, from which Mr. Haley has been suffering, is not only one of the most distressing but one of the most prevalent of all diseases. It is also one of the most difficult to treat and has baffled the medical profession for years, the most skilled specialists being unable to cope with it successfully.

Tanlac, the celebrated medicine, which has proven of such great benefit to those suffering from this trouble contains certain medicinal properties, which, being purely vegetable, are readily taken up by the system, thereby stimulating the appetite and aiding digestion by assisting the stomach in converting the food into nourishing elements that build up tissue and nerve force.

Tanlac is distributed by International Prop. Inc., and sold in Boston by all Liggett's drug stores.—Advertisement.

News of Motion Picture World

By FRIEDA DAVIS

HAVE YOU an ingenu in your home?

Has she any ambitions to go into the movies?

If you have and if she has,—and if she shows comedy ability and a screen personality, there is a place for her in pictures. The Hallroom Boys' Photoplay Corporation, with offices at No. 1790 Broadway, New York, are looking for just such a girl to play leads in the Hallroom Boys' comedies with Sidney Smith, who cavorts on window-sills of skyscrapers and performs stunts in the paths of taxis.

The only requirements, according to the announcement, are that the applicant be young, attractive and quite small. All those who see an opportunity for fame and fortune in this, send in their photographs to the "Hallroom Boys' Photoplays, No. 1600 Broadway, New York city."

CONSTANCE BINNEY TO REST.

CONSTANCE BINNEY

NOW that she has finished work on her next Realart production, "Erstwhile Susan," adapted from the play of that name in which Miss Binney made such a hit, Constance Binney will leave New York for a month in the Connecticut hills.

Miss Binney, her mother and her sister, Faire, have made all arrangements to "trasticate," as Miss Binney calls it, on a small farm, while they forget the very existence of such things as Klieg lights, grease-paint and 8 o'clock calls.

"IT'S AN ILL WIND," ETC.

THE DARKEST of clouds has a silver lining. Though the Von Stroheim film now being made at Universal City—and "now being made" seems to be a chronic state with the picture—may be the despair of the heads of Universal because of the length of time taken in filming and the expenses incurred, it has done its "bit" for little Margaret Armstrong.

Miss Armstrong makes her film debut in this production, and has proved such a "find" that already plans have been made to advance her to the star class. Her initial work in the Von Stroheim picture, "Foolish Wives," is over and she is ready to start work on her next, "The Rage of Paris." Jack Perrin will play the lead opposite Miss Armstrong, who, by the way, will be known on the screen as Miss DuPont, while Hallway Wallace, Lew White, Freeman Wood, J. J. Lanoe and Elinor Hancock are members of the supporting cast.

ANNA Q. NILSSON POPULAR.

POSSIBLY it's true that a prophet is without honor in his own country, and Anna Q. Nilsson is the exception that proves the rule, safe left this country for a first visit to her native land, Sweden, last Winter.

But she didn't reckon with the fame of being a star. Since she set her foot in Sweden, she has lived in a whirl of receptions and exciting ovations. She has also had a very tempting offer to star in Swedish productions. The first picture, which was suggested to her, was an old native legend entitled "A Vanishing Armada." Miss Nilsson, however, admits that she is homesick for America and will not accept the offer.

CAMERA CLICKS.

FLORENCE REED'S next picture will be called "Maternal Affection." The Pioneer Film Corporation will release it in September. Lionel Atwill, scoring a hit in the Belasco play, "Declassee," and Gareth Hughes are members of the supporting cast Miss Reed's truly remarkable work in her former film, "The Black Panther's Cub," has listed her among the best of our screen players.

FLORENCE REED

Lloyd Comedy Scores Hit at Modern Theatre

THIS week one more give Harold Lloyd's comedy, "Now or Never," first place in monopolizing the films playing at the Modern and Beacon Theatres.

"Now or Never" is quite the most howling success than can be imagined. Small wonder that Charlie Chaplin worries more over Lloyd's success than that of any other comedian!

Lloyd is one of the few who have not attempted even the smallest trick of Chaplin's. He has won through his own individuality and his own efforts. "Now or Never" for the results—and for a thoroughly enjoyable half hour.

Next in interest on the bill is Maurice Tourneur's special feature, "Foolish Matrons." Here Mr. Tourneur has attempted a difficult and unusual thing. Taken from a story by Dana Burnet, the picture tells three different stories, giving the incidents that turn the lives for three women, Annis, an actress, Sheila, a reporter, and Georgia, a young wife.

Annis is famous for her views on marriage. A reporter asks her for an interview on the subject. On the way to tea in Annis' car they run into an electric car. Annis is cut badly and is taken to a hospital. Sheila, the reporter, is taken to her home by Tony Sheridan, a poet.

Annis, with her same views on marriage, marries the doctor and saves him from drugs, giving up her career to do it. Sheila, who doesn't believe in letting marriage interfere with pleasure, marries Tony and helps him become a confirmed drunkard, because she is more interested in her work than in him.

Georgia, reading the interview down in Florida, learns to live in New York. She marries Lafe Wayne, who is given an opportunity to join a firm in New York. There she is deceived by the friend of whom and is dragged into the gutter in spite of her husband's help.

It is not a cheerful picture. Tony drinks himself to death and Georgia does worse. Annis is the only one who comes out good. There is sustained interest throughout, despite the way Mr. Tourneur cuts from one thread of the story to another.

The cast has been chosen with care and with an eye to type. Doris May, Wallace MacDonald, Katherine Kirkham, Hobart Bosworth and Charles Meredith take the leading parts, and are supported by Frankie Lee, Betty Schade and others. The only fault we can find is with Miss Lee as Sheila. She is invariably cast for the role of a reporter and just as invariably portrays the type as a cross between Theda Bara and Jack Dempsey.

TENDLER SHOULD MAKE CHAMPION LEONARD HIT HOT PACE

By JACK CONWAY.

Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, will realize he is in a regular fight if Tex Rickard is successful in matching him for a twelve-round bout with Lew Tendler. The world's greatest showman, as the typewriter punchers now refer to Rickard, believes that a match between Leonard and Tendler would prove almost as popular with the public as the Dempsey-Carpentier affair.

There would not be any $20 seats, of course, but there would be a whole lot of people who would be willing to pay as high as $25 for the privilege of seeing Benny and Lew trade blows.

Rickard plans to stage the frolic at his Jersey City arena. As Leonard's home town is in New York, while Tendler hails from Philadelphia, thousands of their followers would storm Boyle's thirty acres on the day of the contest.

* * *

Leonard has proved a great champion. His ability to THINK as well as fight has enabled him to defeat all opposition. Tendler is the one man who stands forth as a serious contender for the championship. Leonard has refused to meet the Philadelphian to date. This, it is said, is due to a personal dislike Billy Gibson, manager of Leonard, has for Phil Glassman, who cares for Tendler's business affairs.

Rickard, however, is not the type of promoter who permits the personal feelings of two managers to prevent him from putting over one of his big shows. Juicy purses usually cause even bitter enemies to forget their personal feuds for the time being.

* * *

Rickard also plans to match Jimmy Wilde and Johnny Buff for the world's bantamweight title. Joe Lynch and Pete Herman for the bantamweight crown, Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard for the heavyweight championship, and Georges Carpentier and Tom Gibbons for the light-heavyweight title. A rather busy person is this Rickard.

* * *

The Arena A. C. expects to play to a capacity crowd when Johnny Wilson defends his title as world's middleweight champion against George Robinson of Cambridge, Friday night. It is a bout of national interest and the most important ring affair that has been booked in this city for several years.

* * *

The fact that Robinson has a referee's decision to his credit over Wilson and has also bested the champion in a no-decision match adds interest to Friday night's meeting. If it were not for the personal feeling between Harry Killilea, manager of Wilson, and Jim MacDonald, manager of Robinson, the match would never have been made. Killilea is risking a fortune so as to prove to MacDonald that Wilson is a real champion and not afraid to meet a legitimate challenger for a decision.

* * *

There are many Boston and New England fans who believe Robinson will win the title Friday night. The Cambridge man is one of the world's best middleweights. He has gone up and down the line meeting all-comers with great success. He is a master boxer, aggressive and a fine ring general. He believes these assets will overcome Wilson's awkward style and powerful left-hand punching.

* * *

It will be a new Wilson who will enter the ring at the Boston Arena. The Charlestown warrior has improved 100 per cent. since he won the middleweight title from Mike O'Dowd in this city a year ago last May. Those fans who saw Wilson pound O'Dowd into submission for the second time at Madison Square Garden, New York, on the night of St. Patrick's Day will bear out this statement.

PUBLIC LINKS MAN SETS COURSE RECORD

Chicago, July 12.—E. H. Lloyd, Chicago public links player, set a record for the reconstructed course of the Westmoreland Country Club and led the field in the qualifying round of the amateur championship of the Western Golf Association with 35 and 37, two under par, for the 6,054-yard course.

Lloyd was closely pressed by James Manion of St. Louis and R. E. Knepper of Sioux City, Iowa, champion, who took 78 strokes each, and H. R. Johnson, St. Paul, who took 79 strokes.

The Southern contingent was led by F. A. Golchaux of Asheville, who made a 78. Twenty-seven starters returned scores under 80, and fifty scored 81 or better. Chick Evans, defending his title for the fifth time, covered the links in 77 strokes.

WALLIS GOT JOB AT U. OF C. IN ODD WAY

Former Boston and Yale Oarsman Made Excellent Record With California Crew

Ben Wallis, rowing coach of the University of California crew, got his job by accident. One day, by chance, he saw the Californians trying to row. They were making a miserable showing. He walked into the boathouse and offered a bit of advice. His five-minute chat got him his job.

This Spring he brought his oarsmen East. The crew is recognized as one of the best outfits on the water. But Wallis had served his time under Gleason, present coach of the navy crew; Ten Eyck of Syracuse and John Kennedy.

Wallis is a Yale man. He won his rowing letter against Harvard. His former home was Boston. After graduating from Yale his days in the shell were over. He went to Honduras to work. Poor health overtook him. He drifted into San Francisco, where by chance he became coach of the Golden Bears.

Wallis is the youngest big league coach in the country. Josh Ten Eyck and Gleason are old enough to be his father. The Californian coach is but thirty-two. He is a modest chap, even to the point of bashfulness. Credit for building up his present crew gives to the men themselves. On the Pacific Coast he is called the apostle of rowing. One of his plans for the future is to build up the rowing sport among high schools on the coast.

Wallis is the new type of rowing coach for which the West is noted. His visit to the East has added further proof that the Western athlete has arrived.

FAMOUS FIGHTING COCK ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

New York, July 12.—The Spanish Royal Mail liner Montserrat arrived from Vera Cruz, Mexico, and Havana on her way to Spanish ports yesterday with forty-two passengers for this port, 276 passengers in transit for Spain and 150 fighting cocks, which, according to their handlers, have cleaned up everything in Mexico that wears feathers.

The gamecocks are in charge of Fernandes Ortega of Mexico City, who had his feathered charges aboard at Vera Cruz. There is lack of good chicken fighting stock in Spain, according to Ortega, and he expects to take his Mexican game birds to Spain to augure not only all of the loose Spanish money but any chicken titles there may be there. The best fighter in his flock is a twenty-ounce bird called Miguel Rojas, which now holds the flyweight championship of Mexico, having whipped everything of its weight. There are also 200 pigeons shipped in Vera Cruz which are destined to Spain.

SEMI-PRO NINES BATTLE THURSDAY

Of the many semi-pro games scheduled for this week, the Butchler and Snyder Hippodrome game, to be played at Braves Field Thursday morning, is the most outstanding affair on the calendar. After many weeks of dickering by managers of both teams this game was arranged.

Shortly after the Braves game these two fast semi-pro teams will take the field to settle their differences. A large sum of money is being wagered by supporters of both sides, and Lavan, owner of superb ball for many of the best teams in the State, will toe the mound for the market scores under 80, and fifty scored 81 or better. Chick Evans, defending his title for the fifth time, covered the links in 77 strokes.

TEX SIGNS CARPENTIER; TO PICK OPPONENT

New York, July 13.—Tex Rickard, who promoted the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, announces that he has signed up the French heavyweight champion for a bout either in Jersey City or in Madison Square Garden here for the second week in October. Carpentier's opponent will be one of the leading light heavyweights of this country. It is believed Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul will get the match.

BLEIBTREY-BOYLE DUEL A FEATURE

Miss Ethelda Bleibtrey, world's premier mermaid, and Miss Charlotte Boyle, her keenest rival, will renew their feud in the open air pool of the Brighton Beach Baths next Saturday afternoon. They will clash in the 100-yard handicap swim, joint feature with the water polo game in which the New York A. C., national A. A. U. champions for fifteen years, will meet an all-star college aggregation.

WINNING SMILE OF JOHNNY WILSON

"The Pride of Charlestown," and world's middleweight champion, also has a winning punch in good working order.

The Bunker Hill boy also declares that he will put it over when he meets George Robinson next Friday night.

MEDBURY

Says the Average Automobile Can Make Three Garages to the Mile

Half of the people in the United States are riding in automobiles and the other half are dodging them.

A man may be in his machine and run across some friend of his; but a woman doesn't have to be riding in an automobile to run down another woman.

There's nothing she likes better than to hear an engine knocking.

Most women know as much about automobiles as the men, but one claims went into an accessory store and asked for a set of front tail lights.

When you buy a car you don't have to worry about where you're going to keep it. It will be in the garage most of the time.

Most of them can make three garages to the mile.

A lot of attachments are put on cars to make them go, but when a sheriff puts one on it can't move.

Driving isn't very pleasant at any time of the year, but in the Winter the roads are full of mud puddles, and in the Summer they're full of speed cops.

If a speed cop arrests you for driving fifty miles an hour, tell him he's wrong—you've only been out ten minutes.

If he still says that you were going fifty miles an hour, tell him that he must have been going fifty-five to catch you and if he doesn't shut up you'll report him for speeding.

Speed cops must be wonderful authors. You can always see one stopped by an automobile, writing something in his book.

Their stories are published in the traffic bureau and read in the court room.

The cop writes the story and you pay twenty-five dollars for it.

GAME AS WELL AS BLACK SOX ON TRIAL

Comiskey's System of Paying Players Not Approved by Fullerton

By Hugh S. Fullerton.

Baseball, rather than a little group of players, is on trial. Whether the Chicago White Sox are convicted or turned loose makes little difference to any one, so long as they are barred forever from playing the game.

To permit one of those fellows big in organized baseball, unless he is proved innocent, would be the worst calamity that could befall the sport.

The public is hardly to be persuaded that the Chicago White Sox are a much abused and downtrodden bunch that had to turn crooked because their salaries were so small.

There has been, it is true, a persistent campaign in baseball, especially among players, to the purpose of persuading the public that Comiskey never would pay salaries.

It is true also that his salary list has usually been a low one—because he usually had mediocre ball players. As he said, he paid them what they were worth, and then some.

If there ever was a more liberal employer in baseball it would be hard to find him. I always believed his system a wrong one, and have had several arguments with Comisky about it—and he always insisted that a club owner should not bind himself to pay a large sum to a player over a stated period, when the chances were that he would not be worth it.

He argued that it is impossible to reduce players' salaries and always easy to pay the man what he was worth when he showed it. He probably gave away more money in gifts and bonuses to ball players than any owner ever did.

When the White Sox beat the Cubs for the world's championship Comisky divided the players' end share, then gave them the club's share to divide among themselves—after which all but two of them left without saying old John, who had washed their uniforms all season.

The bonus system has created a great deal of dissatisfaction among the players. The majority who held out on Comiskey demanded that he pay them their salaries for the preceding year plus all the gifts he had made to them—and when he did it they expected the bonus and gifts in addition.

PERSHING AND NOTABLES TO WITNESS MORAN-MARTIN BOUT

New York, July 12.—General John J. Pershing is expected to head the list of notables who will attend the big boxing carnival at the Boxing Dome A. A. in the Bronx this evening, when Bob Martin, the A. E. F. heavyweight champion, steps through the ropes to battle the sorrel-topped Pittsburgher, Frank Moran, in the main twelve-round decision bout. The profits from the entertainment are to be turned over to the Ex-Service Men's Employment Bureau.

Others who have promised to be on hand this evening are General Robert L. Bullard, Senator James W. Wadsworth, Congressman Walter Chandler, Fiorello LaGuardia, president of the Board of Aldermen; Major-General John F. O'Ryan, Robert Grier Cooke, Henry Curran, Lieutenant-Colonel Rankhead and Big Bill Edwards. Georges Carpentier is also expected to be on hand when festivities commence.

BABE RUTH HAS SCORED HOME RUNS IN EACH PARK

When Babe Ruth hit for a home run in yesterday's game between the Yankees and White Sox at Chicago he completed his circuit of American League ball parks, as the home of the White Sox was the only field on which he had not hit a home run earlier in the year.

This is the third successive season in which Ruth has hit at least one home run on every American League playing field—a feat never performed in the majors except by the Yankee slugger. In 1919 Babe did not complete his circuit until September 27, when he hit his twenty-ninth home run at Washington.

Last season he did not include all the parks until August 14, when he got his forty-second homer, also at Washington. Babe is now eight days ahead of his 1920 home run schedule, as he got his thirty-second last year on July 20.

On this date last year he had only twenty-seven to his credit. Ruth's thirty-two home runs this season have been made as follows: At New York, 18; Washington, 2; Boston, 3; Philadelphia, 2; Chicago, 2; Detroit, 2; St. Louis, 1; Chicago, 1.

SPRINTERS TO HAVE CALL AT BIKE TRACK

N. E. Championship Trials on Revere Card—Cavanaugh Among Entries

Hard competition faces Willie Kellar in his effort to retain the New England professional mile title in the trial heats to be held tomorrow night at the Revere Cycle track. The little Newark star has a stronger field against him this year. The fact that Frank Cavanaugh will start in this event means a lively night for Kellar. These men are keen rivals.

The thirty professional sprinters at the track will enter the mile championship. There is a possibility of both Kellar and Cavanaugh being shut out. The classy field they will face will include such stars as Hugh McFarland, Tom Grimm, Ralph Spiers, Lester Bowker, "Sailor" Gilbert and the Rollins brothers.

The other feature race tomorrow night brings together George Wiley, Vincent Madonna, George Chapman and Lucien Mingel in a 25-mile motor-paced race.

BUNKER HILLS VS. PERE MARQUETTES

The fast Bunker Hill Council, K. of C., baseball team will cross bats with the Pere Marquette Council nine of South Boston at the M Street playgrounds in South Boston in a twilight game, this evening. McCourt and Dempsey will be the battery for the South Boston team, and the game will start at 6:15 o'clock.

LOU TELLIER HAS RECORD ROUND IN PRO GOLF AT BRAE-BURN

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

Lou Tellier established a new competitive record of 73 for the Brae Burn course, as it is now laid out, in the medal play tournament for members of the New England Professional Golfers' Association, held Monday. Lou was out in 35 and back in 37. His putt for a 71 stopped on the edge of the cup.

Ralph Thomas, the Western professional, won the tournament with 83-78-161—8-153, and Ed Myers of Providence was second with 79-81-160—154. Three players tied for third. They were Ted Gow, Norwich, 155-4-155; Tom Mahan, Haverhill, 162-8-155, and Henry Dolan, Brae-Burn, 167-12-155.

* * *

An open mixed foursome was played today at the Oakley Country Club. It was the first meeting of this kind this season. The members of the Woman's Golf Association played in a mixed foursome with the professionals earlier in the year, but this was the first opportunity the amateurs had to play with the women.

* * *

There will be 232 starters in the national open golf championship which starts at Washington one week from today. Twenty players from this section will participate, the leading entries being John Cowan, Oakley; Lou Tellier, Brae Burn; Willie Ogg, Worcester, and Jesse Guilford, Wandland, the new State amateur champion.

* * *

The field will be qualified over eighteen holes, half the field to play Tuesday and the others Wednesday. The sixty-four returning the lowest cards and all tied for sixty-fourth place will continue in the seventy-two holes medal play test for the championship. Jock Hutchison will qualify Tuesday with Abe Mitchell and Jim Barnes on Wednesday with George Duncan.

* * *

Winchester Country Club members report the greens at the club to be in the finest condition since the eighteen-hole course was opened. This is good news to the amateurs who start a three-day tournament there on Wednesday.

* * *

George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, British golfers, opened their American tour at the Pelham Manor Club yesterday by beating Jack Hutchison and Tom Kerrigan 2 and 1 in eighteen holes. The individual cards were Duncan, 78; Mitchell, 81; Hutchison, 81; Kerrigan, 82.

TROWBRIDGE ILL; OUT OF BIG COLLEGE MEET

George A. Trowbridge, former Princeton hurdler and star of the Cambridge-Oxford track team, has been stricken with appendicitis at his home in Desert Island, Me., and will be unable to represent the Britons against Harvard and Yale July 23 in the Stadium.

The Britons depended on Trowbridge to win the high hurdles, either giving them a victory or a chance to tie. With the former Princeton star out of it, Krogness of Harvard seems set to come in first.

With acknowledgments to K. C. B.

Who's Who in "The Streets of Ascalon"

STRELSA LEEDS—A charming young widow, who comes to New York and is sponsored by one of the leaders of society.

RICHARD QUARREN—A gifted young idler, who falls in love with Strelsa.

LANGLY SPROWL—A multi-millionaire, who has determined to marry Strelsa, and who has explained his unsavory past to her by a seemingly frank talk.

SIR CHARLES MALLISON—A rich Englishman, who has long hoped to win Strelsa's heart.

MARY LEDWITH—Who, betrayed by Sprowl, at last sees the good in Chester Ledwith, the husband she tossed aside.

THE EARL OF DANKMERE—Who brings over a lot of family pictures and incidentally starts Quarren on the road to usefulness.

MOLLY WYCHERLY—A great friend of Strelsa's, who breaks to Quarren the news that the young widow has lost all her money.

MRS. SPROWL—A Fifth avenue dowager, who undertakes a matrimonial campaign for Strelsa, hoping to marry her to Sir Charles Mallison.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED.

Dick Quarren, society idler and spendthrift, but with good looking but [illegible] Mrs. Leeds survives her fig[illegible] Quarren [illegible] Charles—I think I could be almost reconciled for her [illegible] you —— Quarren laughed bitterly. "An irreparable loss to any woman," he said. I doubt that Mrs. Leeds survives her fig[illegible] "Okay. She cares a great deal [illegible] You're not the sneering, fleering hasty kind. If you are lucky hasty [illegible] that, don't [illegible] that I could speak to her as an equal and not as a servant hasty [illegible] that money is necessary—except perhaps a silly sentimentalist hers and there's— "When there are one or two— [illegible] I owe you one, too, Lucky. I'm sure I'm not fool enough to [illegible] tioned to everything to be contented with it anything." "There's her husband as an asset." "Oh, my dear, don't talk slush!" "And—children—perhaps?" [illegible] body and to themselves. What could Strelsa find in life without the means to enjoy it?"

"Nothing—perhaps. . . . But I believe I'll ask her."

She'll tell you the truth, Ricky. She's an unusually truthful woman. . . . I must go downtown Strelsa and I are lunching—she reddened —with Langly. . . . His aunt would kill me if she heard it. . . . I positively do not dare ask Langley to Witch-Hollow because I'm [illegible] Strelsa has to marry him'—

She [illegible] and [illegible] reflected, perhaps, that if Strelsa was to be [illegible] [illegible] have to accept [illegible] unable and social glamour incident to the arrangement.

Then, kneeling at Quarren, her heart smote her, and she flushed.

"Come up to Witch-Hollow, Ricky dear, and get her to elope with you if you can! Will you?"

"I'll come to Witch-Hollow if you ask me."

"That's ducky of you. You are [illegible] to Mrs. Sprowl blow up—and see that hatchet-faced Langly disappointed—yes, I would, and I don't care what you think! Their ancestors were common people, and heaven knows why a Wycherly of Wycherly should be afraid of the descendants of Dutch rum smugglers!"

Quarren looked up with a weary smile.

"But you are afraid," he said.

"I am," admitted Molly, furiously, and [illegible]

As we pay for this car he said.

"Write me if you don't change your mind about asking me to W[illegible]

"No fear," said the pretty woman; [illegible] do?"

"I go so too," he [illegible] a ghost of a smile.

Money Necessary.

"I'm speaking of your world"—

Strelsa Wrote

A fortnight later Strelsa wrote to Quarren for the first time in nearly two months!

"Dear Mr. Quarren,

"I last wrote to you [illegible] low and lazy of me—but I'd love [illegible] ridable—a distance to every- [illegible] of a clear day, supposing that mat- [illegible] ters would always remain with me as they were—that I should never know any serious want, never apprehend actual necessity—I had made up my mind to a course of life which now has become impossible.

"It was not, perhaps, a very admirable plan of existence that I had conceived for myself, nothing original or original. I meant, merely, not to marry, to live well within my income, to divide my time between my friends and myself—but to [illegible] ment, tranquil cultivation, and a wider and more serious interest in things worthy [illegible]

"If by dividing my time between my friends and myself I was to lose touch more or less with the lively and rather exacting society in which I live, I had decided on the sacrifice.

"And that, Mr. Quarren, is how matters stood with me until a month ago.

Everything Altered

"Now everything is altered— even my own character I think. There is in me very little courage—and, alas, much of that [illegible] pain and privation of any kind— [illegible] so little of material ease and [illegible]

"I had been dreaming of a balanced and secure life with leisure to develop mental resources hitherto neglected. And your friendship—our new understanding—meant much of that part of life for me—more than I realized—for more than you do. Can [illegible] menace of material destruction. I am in dire terror of it; I simply do not choose to endure it. That I need not submit to it inspires in me the low type of equanimity that enables me to face the future with apparent courage. My world applauds it as pluck. I have confessed to you what it really is.

Preacher of Ideals.

"Now you know me Mr. Quarren—a preacher of lofty ideals [illegible] a coward in adversity.

"I thought once that the most ignoble sentiments ever entertained by man were those lesser and physical emotions which, in the world, masquerade as love—or as essential part of it. To me they always seemed intolerable as any part of love, material, unworthy, base. To me love was intellectual [illegible] would be nothing less lofty—and should aspire to the spiritual [illegible]

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

—By B. C. Forbes—

Have you cultivated adaptability? It's man ability to adapt himself to changing conditions that has given him so much greater power than beasts. Without this quality the highest success is not attainable and happiness is beyond reach.

Those who are suffering most in the business world today are individuals and companies that refused to adapt themselves promptly to the change which overtook conditions. Most of our bankrupts are men and concerns that stubbornly retained high prices for goods on hand after it became clear to every sane person that the day of high prices had passed. In the same way, the worst sufferers among labor groups are those who elected to go on strike rather than accept any reduction in wages.

* * *

John Wanamaker earned much applause and doubtless a lot of profit by promptly adapting his merchandising policy to the new conditions a year ago. Others who exercised adaptability also fared better than those who resisted the overwhelming trend and thereby got out of step with economic events.

Adaptibility is first cousin to foresight. Superhuman foresight would be of no value unless it was followed by adopting plans and policies and action to suit the coming developments. Even during these trying months adaptability has enabled quite a number of enterprises to achieve extraordinary success.

* * *

Here are two illustrations of adaptability, as described to me yesterday:

"The McClave-Brooks Co. have been able to turn the existing business situation to their advantage by finding in it an angle of appeal to the manufacturer who has a power plant. They sell shaking grates, hand-fired stokers, semi-automatic and automatic stokers. When these are to be installed in an existing plant, boilers must be released, and, naturally, in a busy time no manufacturer can afford to shut down a boiler. They have, therefore, made use of this fact to get manufacturers to make stoker installations at this time, with the result that their June business was more than 100 per cent. ahead of their May business, and was the biggest June in their history.

* * *

"As evidence of increase in residential construction, the American Pulley Company have likewise found orders increasing for their sash pulleys, and after having a careful investigation made, owing to the dullness of sales effort from industrial pullers, where the absence of new construction made but little demand, to sash pulleys. The result of this new sales effort has been that the sash pulleys, before the yellow cur of the sales department that was kicked around and considered a nuisance, is now the one bright spot in their sales record, and shows an increased distribution of more than 100 per cent.

* * *

Are you adapting yourself and your activities to the new order? Have you dismissed as a closed chapter the artificial prices, profits and wages which prevailed during the unsettling war boom? Have you reconciled yourself to turning over a new leaf and adapting your affairs to realities of today and prospects of tomorrow?

Or, are you like the man I played golf with the other day? He started off brilliantly. Then he flubbed one or two shots. That started him fuming and fulminating. As his temper became worse so did his play. He simply could not reconcile himself to a little bit of hard luck, or adversity, or whatever you choose to call it. His inability to adapt himself to his ill-fortune lost him the match.

* * *

Prosperity's return would be greatly hastened if all of us would, without further delay, adapt ourselves to the entirely changed conditions which now rule. We must wake up to the fact that the abnormal conditions and abnormal opportunities which prevailed during the hectic war boom are over and done with, and that we adapt ourselves to playing the game under the different rules which have come into force.

* * *

A study of the careers of extraordinary successful business and business leaders reveals that nearly all of them had to exercise adaptability, and exercise it quite often and decisively, at certain stages of their development. It was largely because they were quick to size up new situations and adapt themselves thereto that they were able to overcome difficulties which would have proved insurmountable had they persisted in jogging along in a rut. Had the American army not been able to adopt new tactics to meet the new forms of warfare evolved by the Germans, unspeakable slaughter would have resulted. Business today is a hard battle.

* * *

Are you adapting yourself and your activities to cope successfully with the conditions you find confronting you? Only those who can muster up the qualities of generalship can hope to attain or retain leadership. Without adaptability success is impossible.

DISARMING AS FACTOR IN BUSINESS

Evans Points Out That Industry of Many Kinds Would Be Injured

By C. B. EVANS

Chicago, July 12.—Some pleasing smiles are coming over the wires from New York. This from a quarter that for months has produced ugly grimaces is encouraging. Here on the plane of game with the smile to expressionlessness.

We hear from New York that the "improvement in fundamental affairs shaping throughout the country" is a larger reason for a hopeful frame of mind. That improvement is not very beautifully expressed by the bankers of 2.62 for sterling checks when within a few months that interim national item has been quoted above 4.

EFFECTS OF DISARMING.

The proposal of the President that limitation of armaments directly taken is well received, though such a step would mean a great reduction in some lines of industry. Directly those industries which have heretofore manufactured weapons and munitions of war would be affected. In the world the destructive force of war, industry of many kinds would be injured for a period of time, though, of course, in the long run the race would be immensely benefited.

One would find it an extremely interesting thing to enter upon a thorough study of the effect of the abolition of war. As the word has been in some ways the greatest word in history, human affairs would be revolutionized by the passing of weapons of destruction. The effect on the market for labor and all sorts of commodities would be greatly accentuated by the ability to measure or even surmise. Any curtailment in the production of war materials would make itself felt.

NEWS NOT EXCITING.

These great possibilities are now awarded only a passing thought, for, in the first place, American at least are not thinking very much on these big days and, to the second place, the end of the war is a possibility too far off to modify the plans of the ordinary man.

Important news announcements make little impression. The daily "news" is reported by the Steel corporation slips by the notice of the speculator without so much as a bow of recognition. Even the large amounts of money presumably soon to be paid by the railroads have failed to arouse a thrill.

Steel does make something of an appeal to interest, but even of this only a trifle that commodity report an increase in scattered buying. This is worth noting inasmuch as of this only little but discouraging information has been heard and the seller has had to do the walking.

ON THE BUYING SIDE.

This time the movement, small though it is, is on the buying side. Among the buyers this week have been there is much anxiety with respect to further reductions in quotations, and the reaction for the decline last week in International Harvester, which is followed this week by the new low price of 71¾, is thought to be a new reduction in inventory by that company after the thorough cutting down which occurred at the close of last year.

Whether in the form of manufactured goods or raw material, every pound of steel owned by a manufacturer is worth less money than it was three days or a week ago. By no means logically, is the value of the stock of any such company worth in the market. This is not something that the "twelve acres of tractors" the Harvester Company is reported to have on hand or in this city, plus the supply elsewhere.

HARVESTER A BARGAIN.

It is doubtful, too, if some of the manufacturers that no tractors are now being sold except those which are wanted by western people, are comparatively few. Nevertheless there are a number of good buyers and a thorough knowledge of such affairs who declare that the harvester stock at these prices is a bargain as good as is the confidence in the management in the future of the industry.

Depreciation in plant and steel values is the most important consideration. The fact how confronting the people of the United States. This because of the universal use of this metal. Contrasted with the United States produces more than any other of its commodities, it is not much are we becoming impoverished by comparison with these other countries? If we are to judge by the wealth merely by market quotations

The fact that we have more working capital than any other country in the world sometimes blinds us to these more fundamental considerations. A farmer with $1,000 in cash on hand and a farm worth only $500 is not so rich as his neighbor with a $10,000 farm and only a few nickels in his pocket.

Copper Price Firmer

The latest report from the copper market is that business is exceedingly quiet but that prices are a shade firmer. Although some dealers are quoting odd lots at 13 cents a pound, it is said that some sales have been effected at 13 cents. Leading selling agencies have refused to quote 13 cents for nearby deliveries.

Wall Street Briefs

May petroleum shipments from Mexican ports were 13,690,727 bbls., a decrease from those of 1,835,005 bbls. compared with April. (By Dow-Jones.)

The Steel Corporation mills operated in June at from 50- to 55-per-cent capacity, the lowest rate in many years.

The Baltimore & Ohio and Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad Company have been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $2,000,000 of 6-per-cent bonds.

Reports to Dun's Review states that the Canadian wheat crop prospects are excellent, and that prices for 1921 ranged 15 per cent. above 1920 prices, or about 40 per cent. lower than the 1920 opening.

Agricultural Reports

According to the Department of Agriculture the composite condition of this country's crops on July 1 was 82.2 per cent. below their 10-year average condition on that date, as compared with a condition 6.6 per cent. below the average on June 1.

The farming area of this country last year, according to census figures, totaled 955,884,000 acres, an increase of 15,553,000 acres in 1919, showing an increase of 1,633,870 acres, or 8.7 per cent. The average acreage per farm in 1920 was 148.2 acres, while the average in 1910 was 138.1 acres.

MEXICAN PETE LED LIST IN UPSWING

Short Covering Causes a Forenoon Rise; International Harvester Advances

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at good, in some cases the highest level of the forenoon. There was a slight reaction in the second hour. Trading was of fair volume only, final hour transactions approximating 1,500,000 shares. Mexican Petroleum led the day's movement and International Harvester was another strong issue. In the latter part of the morning American Sugar became weak, losing more than 2 points of gains after advancing more than 4 points.

Among strong stocks were American Woolen, Baldwin Locomotive, Atlantic Gulf, United Fruit, Famous Players-Lasky, Texas Company, Sears Roebuck, Industrial Alcohol, U. S. Rubber and Utah Copper.

Call money opened at 6 per cent. Foreign exchange rates were steady at the start. Demand sterling opened at $4.56.

UP AT THE OPENING.

In the instance of a majority of stocks prices were higher at the opening, and before a quarter of the market became still stronger. The movement was upward during the first hour and gains ranged from fractions to more than three points during that period. Oils and a number of specialties advanced the most. Steels did not improve much and Reading was the only rail to advance more than a point in early trading. Sugars were firmer, with American Sugar in the lead. Tobaccos were irregular and showed but little price change. Studebaker was the only active motor and was continued to show strength. The most conspicuous issue was Mexican Petroleum, which rallied at par, a two-point gain, on the statement that President Harding is opposed to the tariff on oil imports. The American also reflected this report from Washington.

MORE COVERING.

There was not much outside demand for stocks and trading remained professional in character. While room traders are as bearish as ever the oversold condition of the market is being slowly covering on a on extensive scale. That accounted for the rising trend this morning. The buying in of stocks for cash is indicative of an unusual technical position, for it is the first time in as many transactions of this kind have been reported. A report from New York is that there was a shortage of 6,000 shares of American Sugar reported in order to make room for liveries on the part of certain operators. During the day that issue commanded 109¾ and fell to 1 per cent premium. Cash trading to some extent was also reported in the calling in of borrowed stock. Conditions in the stock loan market are exceptional for the time of year. International Harvester was quoted at 1-16 premium. Rallied at par, a two-point gain, on the statement that Standard Oil and Chicago Steel Investors and United States Rubber was in demand as a part of the movement. Sugar was also in large demand at 4 per cent. "Those rates," it was said, "indicated an extreme short interest."

New Bedford Dividends

Twenty-six companies represented in New Bedford distributed dividends during the June quarter the sum of $1,183,744 on a capital of $22,615,500, an average of 2.629 per cent. In the March quarter the aggregate amount distributed was $1,374,234 on a capital of $50,562,500, representing an average of 2.715 per cent. In the corresponding quarter of 1920 the cotton mills paid $2,712,000 on a capital of $46,522,000, or $783,646 in excess of the year's disbursement. The total paid in 1920 was $4,594,242, and in 1919 $2,787,998. In the first half of 1920 the disbursement was $4,594,242.

June Ingot Output

Thirty companies, representing about 84.20 per cent. of the total ingot output, produced 1,003,406 tons of steel in June, as compared with 1,786,586 in May this year and 2,886,689 in June last year.

Boston's Foreign Trade

For the year ended with April port of Boston imports totalled $282,-611,951, against $411,895,031 for the preceding twelve months, while exports amounted to $175,765,618, as compared with $270,378,147.

June Coal Production

June production of bituminous coal was approximately 32,852,000 tons, an increase of 212,000 over the May output. June production of anthracite is estimated at 8,159,000 tons, and exceeded the average for the years 1913 to 1920 by 161,000 tons.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, July 12.—The cotton market was active at the start in the first hour of trading and first prices were ten points lower to 4 points higher than the previous close. Wall street and commission houses and there was considerable hedge selling at the end of three months the market was dull, with prices about 10 points below the previous close. Active opening prices were: July, 12.50; August, 12.90; October, 13.16; December, 13.05; January, 13.35; March, 13.55 to 13.70; May, 13.78.

TRADING QUIET ON BOSTON EXCHANGE

Local Market Irregular All the Morning; Curb Market Has a Weak Opening

There was an irregular price movement in Boston at the opening of the exchange, but gains constituted the majority in fluctuations. There was slight improvement during the forenoon, but the market remained mixed as to movement. Trading was dull. Old Dominion was off a point, and Utah opened a point lower. Other coppers were quiet and had a heavy tone. New England rails displayed no trend on a few sales. Swift & Co. was the only packing stock to show any life. It gained a fraction. Mexican Investment was active and strong. Trading in the curb market and in the sport tax on petroleum is viewed with disfavor by the Washington administration. Union Tank Car sold at a new low for the year. Gains or from 1 to 2 points in public utilities, Edison Electric, Gas and Electric of Boston & Maine, United Fruit, American Sugar preferred, Calumet & Hecla, Agricultural Chemical and Central Mexican Investment. On its first sale in some time Hood Rubber sold at 2 points above par. Point losses were established by Adventure, Old Dominion, Boston & Albany and Twin Butte.

CURB OPENING WEAK.

The Curb market had a weak opening, but developed a better tone during the morning. It was fairly active, with Boston & Montana and Eureka the leaders. The first named sold at a new high for the year. At the end of an hour Acme Coal was up 1-16 at 3¾, and Victory Tire 1-16 at 98 7-16 cents. Boston & Montana was off 2 cents at 49 cents. Alpha remained at 4 cent loss and Eureka was unchanged.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

Receipts from the sporting tax with June by the City of Boston and the County of Suffolk amounted to $1,161,486, and collections to $235,106.92. The balance on hand as of June 30 was $6,226,206. Total appropriations are $12,840,731, as compared with $126,289,551 a year ago.

Old local financial interests are reported to have declined an offer from Eastern capitalists to purchase the Boston Herald. It is said that the latter group are also interested in the new stock of the Boston Herald-Traveler Corporation.

There has been added to the Boston Stock Exchange list Fisher Body Corporation preferred. Chemical Co. first refunding mortgage 6-per-cent bonds, due 1941, are listed for outstanding interim receipts.

The Boston Curb will now quoting call money.

The Fairbanks Company has filed a certificate with the Commissioner of Corporations showing an increase in the common stock from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

Articles of organization as a Mass. corporation by Kelley-Spaulding Steel Co., have been filed with the Secretary of State, dated June 30. The capital stock is $1,000,000. Bond & Co., at 5-25 Broad street, are the agents.

COUPLE REACH CHICAGO SAFELY IN AIRPLANE

Chicago, July 12.—Mr. and Mrs. William Edgar of Minneapolis, who left that city yesterday in an airplane to fly to New York in 24 hours, reached Chicago safely when they did not arrive at the expected time, were found today. They had made a forced landing because of the outskirts of Chicago, but did not report their arrival to their friends until this morning.

Iron and Steel Prices

According to the Iron Age the average price of eight principal iron and steel products declined in the week to July 5 to 1.871c against 1.874c the week before; 2.54.42 April 26, following the April 13 price out of the Steel Corporation; 2.85.05 the 1920 high point August 3; and 1.515, the average in August, 1913, a typical pre-war level.

Dye Industry Expanding

The extent of the expansion of this country's dye industry is shown in a U. S. Tariff Commission report, as quoted by Secretary Hoover.

"The output of dyes in 1920 exceeded 54,000 pounds, valued at more than $85,000,000, which was a 40 per cent increase in quantity and a 70 per cent increase in value over the preceding year, and was 10 per cent. in excess of the pre-war imports."

Railroad Items

For the fourth week of June the Colorado Southern reports gross decreased $177,021, while for the month the decrease was $1,-682. From January 1 the road reports $1,-067,425.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the Missouri Pacific to issue $200,000 to Chicago & Alton.

The Baltimore & Ohio has been granted authority by the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $2,000,000 of 6-per-cent bonds and to pledge them as collateral for notes.

At the end of June there were 373,791 surplus cars on the railroads, according to Car Service.

St. Louis Southwestern maintenance charges for June amounted to $580,000, or 27 per cent. of gross, as compared with $996,000 in April, 1920, and $470,000 in January, 1921. Maintenance for the same amount in February and $470,000 in January.

Northern Maryland gross decreased $49,364 in the fourth week of June and $8,427 for the month. The road reports an increase of $480,

Investment Opportunities in Rail Securities

With the affairs of the country's railroads rapidly assuming a more favorable aspect, the time is opportune for investors to take advantage of the investment opportunities that now prevail among the rails. And, in connection with making the best selections, our Market Review would prove of great value, as it currently contains up-to-the-minute analyses of different railroads as well as of industrial, petroleum and mining companies.

Rules of Song Title Test

The Boston American Songs of the World Title Test consists of skill and judgment. Title Test rules of the Boston American, if, as a matter of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and twenty cash awards will be given by the Boston American to readers who send in the largest number of correct titles to the Test. Lists are to be published one each day, beginning tomorrow (Tuesday) in the Boston American.

Employes of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the Test.

Each picture will consist of 60 pictures, each representing the title of a well-known song to be printed one each day in the Boston American, the first picture on Wednesday, June 8, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which may be conducted by the Boston American will not debar anyone from entering this test.

Every member of the family or all members of a family will be allowed to submit lists of titles. However, the prize winner will only ONE prize, no matter how many participants. He will be entitled to more than one award and will receive the largest award earned in the entire family.

Each and every title must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American, or on a piece of paper similar in form to the coupon furnished by the Boston American, or on a piece of paper containing the same information, the name, residence, etc., of the participant, and the title.

Do not send your titles in "liner" form, i. e., do not send them under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct solution, giving weight to skill and judgment.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their lists before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. NEED your lists to be sent in a day and at the end the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in (if members of a family, one list).

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test closes will stand as better than the last titles received.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American Newspaper, or by all members of a family will be allowed to submit lists. Only ONE list from each family will be considered. Only ONE participant in a family will be entitled to more than one award and that will be the largest award earned in the family.

Each and every title must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American, or on a piece of paper similar in form to the coupon furnished by the Boston American, or on a piece of paper containing the same information, the name, residence, etc., of the participant, and the title.

Do not send your titles in "liner" form, i. e., do not send them under one another on a piece of paper.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be legibly addressed as follows: Song Title Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 107, Mass. Each and every envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender, and the number of titles or sheets of paper contained therein.

All pictures in the Test will contain parts of the subject matter. It will not be absolutely necessary that the packages be fully prepaid, as they will be delivered as first-class matter. The Boston American reserves the right to refuse to consider any part of titles received after the end of the Test.

Marion Davies Stars In Big Photo Drama at Norumbega Park

MARION DAVIES.

Marion Davies, the big Cosmopolitan star, featured in the big photo drama, "Buried Treasure," holds the centre of the stage this week at Norumbega Park. This excellent picture is produced by four acts of vaudeville that would be favorably compared with any vaudeville in the high-class theatres throughout the country.

The acts include Eugene and Finney, in a sensational comedy bar act; Ryan and Mann, in song and comedy; King and Perry, in comedy, song and dancing, and Gene Harvey and company, in a comedy act.

The last three days feature photo-play will be another Cosmopolitan production, featuring E. K. Lincoln and Seana Owen in "The Woman God Changed." Dancing in the restaurant is as popular as ever, likewise the other park attractions.

ROOM IN STATE HOUSE CALLED 'DEATH HOLE'

Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree Citizens Adjourn Hearing on Oil to Ford Hall

Denouncing the quarters assigned to them at the State House as "a death hole," 500 men and women of Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth today refused to attend, with their hearing of protest against the alleged nuisance caused by the Massachusetts Oil Refining Company of East Braintree.

The men and women were jammed into and overflowed Room 445, one of the largest rooms at the State House.

When State Health Commissioner Eugene R. Kelly arrived with the members of the Public Health Council to open the meeting, Mayor Bradford of Quincy jumped upon the desk and exclaimed:

"As a citizen of Massachusetts I protest against the holding of a meeting in any such quarters. This is a poorly ventilated, inadequate place, and if the State can't do any better, I propose that we adjourn to Ford Hall, a hall down town."

Roars of approval greeted the statement.

"Somebody is going to collapse," said Mayor Bradford.

"I agree with you," said Dr. Kelley. "It would be a crime to hold a meeting here."

Dr. Kelley immediately hired Ford Hall and said he would send the bill to the State. He didn't know what authority I've got, but I'm going to do it," he said. The meeting of protest was then transferred to Ford Hall.

WIFE SUES GIRL IN WORCESTER FOR $10,000

Mrs. Garfield A. MacKay Alleges Annie Dyke Stole Husband's Affection

Worcester, July 12.—Alleging that Annie Dyke of this city had stolen away the affection of her husband, Garfield A. MacKay, No. 16 Ashburnham street, Worcester, Mrs. Mary Foster MacKay, of No. 16A Ashburnham place, Boston, has brought suit for $10,000 damages in the Superior Court here.

She also charges MacKay with failure to support, and in the District Court here he has been ordered to pay her $5 weekly.

In the hearing at the District Court it came out that Mrs. MacKay was her husband's second wife and that he married him last January, after breaking an engagement with a Providence girl. He boarded in the same house with her in Boston.

She declares there was an agreement that she was to retain her $25 a week job until her husband could provide a home, but that he had done nothing towards it, nor has he contributed to her support.

It also developed that two weeks ago she had grown despondent and had attempted to drown herself in the bathtub of her boarding house.

MacKay has denied all his wife's charges and told the court that his income as sewing machine agent was only $15 a week.

DRUNKEN AUTO DRIVER FINED $100 IN ATTLEBORO

Attleboro, July 12.—Leonidas Lalleron of Pawtucket was fined $100 in the District Court for operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor. A charge of drunkenness was placed on file. Lareau had previously pleaded guilty, but retracted. The arrest followed an accident in South Attleboro.

FINED $50 FOR WATERING MILK

John A. Driscoll of Lexington was fined $50 in the District Court at Concord, yesterday, by Judge Keyes, on a charge of watering milk.

Should Demand Rights

Disabled Soldiers Must Stop Playing Opponents' Game and Form Political Organization

The officers of the Massachusetts organization to promote justice for our disabled soldiers have seen Governor Cox and obtained his promise to do what he can to aid them in their efforts to remove the stain of ingratitude and injustice which men who do not want to pay taxes are forcing upon our national government.

However well intentioned, we have not the least idea that Governor Cox will be able to do much for our disabled soldiers. The problem of obtaining justice for our soldiers has gone beyond the stage of appealing to the sense of justice of individual politicians. The individual politician can do nothing in a government under the control of the organized wealth of the country which wants a reduction of taxes.

The soldiers have been patient and have asked rather than demanded justice. Our government is not a machine which turns out justice automatically. Its products are the resultant of forces acting upon it and the soldiers, if they want justice, must become more powerful politically than the great financial interests which are opposing justice to the soldiers.

The first step in a new program to obtain what they ought to have is to cease to ask for it and to demand it.

The next step to stop those notoriety seekers among them who are constantly playing the game of their financial opponents by violating those fundamental constitutional rights of a free country by unlawfully and violently breaking up meetings and interfering with the freedom of discussion by people who believe and say and propose to do things which the big financial interests dislike and fear. While it is true that the lawless element is a small minority among the members of the American Legion, there is too much reason to believe that many of the officers of the different legion posts secretly sympathize with these lawless gangs. Moreover, the reactionary newspapers make the public believe that these gangs really represent the legion. Thus the legion is made an effective instrument of the big financial interests although so far ineffective for the promotion of the soldiers' rights.

Having stopped the legion from playing its opponents' game, the third step would be to form a political organization which can convince the politicians that the soldiers can reward those who deny to the soldiers their rights.

The power of the number of our soldiers and their friends, added to the power of the right, will make them invincible, if they exert that power for their own interests and do not permit it to be dissipated by insincere officers and pseudo-patriots, who for a little cheap notoriety like to pull chestnuts out of the fire for the very interests which are opposing the soldiers' rights.

R. R. Heads Show Ignorance

Last month the railroad presidents sent out to the newspaper editors and to the business men of the country generally a communication called Bulletin No. 23. It is the twenty-third of a series of bulletins which constitute the railroad propaganda concerning the inquiry now being conducted by the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce into the failure of the private management of the railroads since the railroads were returned by the government to their old private control.

This bulletin is an excellent example either of the ignorance or the impertinence of the railroad presidents. If it is impertinence, then it is ignorance, too, because no body of intelligent men would be impertinent in the delicate situation in which the railroad presidents now find themselves.

In this extraordinary bulletin they undertake to show how little the great increase in railroad charges has affected the cost of living, and they cite cattle, hogs, grain, clothes, butter, eggs, fruit, potatoes and sugar.

The workman has to pay the 40 per cent. increase of freight on every article he buys. That means that his cost of living is increased by the total amount of increased freight rates on all the things that he has to buy because everything that he buys comes to him over the railroad.

Now, when a great and general increase of freight rates and passenger fares makes a general increase in the cost of living, the manufacturer naturally wants more profit because a dollar won't buy as much when all prices are higher as it did when all prices are lower. Thus every single element which enters into the price of a suit of clothes is increased in its cost. We do not know how much the combination of all these increases of cost is affecting the price of clothes, but certain it is that the cost of transporting the suit of clothes itself is a ridiculously insignificant part of it.

British-Jap Treaty

It appears to be a part of British propaganda to make Americans believe that Great Britain will not sign a treaty with Japan which America does not want her to sign.

We do not know what the object of the British diplomatic manoeuvring concerning this treaty is, but if it is to put the United States in a position of asking Great Britain not to sign an offensive and defensive alliance with Japan, thus to get the United States to assume the obligations which would follow the granting by Great Britain of such a request, we should assume that the people of the United States and our government would decline the soft impeachment.

There are certain notorious facts affecting the proposed renewal of the alliance between Great Britain and Japan. Great Britain knows these facts and knows that we know them, and knows that we know that Great Britain knows that we know them. The most important of these facts is that Great Britain has no possible use for an offensive and defensive alliance with Japan except as a protection against or as an aid in offence against the United States. If Great Britain doesn't need an offensive and defensive alliance with Japan against the United States, she does not need an offensive and defensive alliance with Japan at all.

Therefore, if she is seriously considering an alliance with Japan and yet would be willing to withdraw from it if we said the word, she has one of several purposes in mind. She wants the United States to assume an obligation towards her by asking her not to sign a treaty which she cares nothing at all about, or she intends to sign the treaty anyway with certain faithless reservations.

We are not interested in the negotiations between Great Britain and Japan concerning the renewal of their alliance. It is none of our business. We are only interested in the alliance because we know that it can be directed only against us and that we must arm against it.

It is enough to say this both to Great Britain and to Japan and to mean it and to act resolutely along the lines indicated. If, then, Great Britain and Japan wish to form an alliance, that is their business, and we shall have no right to complain of it, but the people neither of Great Britain nor of Japan would then have any right to complain if we thereupon called upon them to pay the interest on their loans so that we may not be obliged to finance their preparations for war and if we used our superior national resources to build an armament that would make the mistress of the seas very seasick before we sank through.

Women Ask No Pity

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

SIRS, when you pity us I say
You waste your pity. Let it stay.
Well corked and stored upon your shelves,
Until you need it for yourselves.

We do appreciate God's thought
In forming you before He brought Us into life. His art was crude.
But oh, so virile in its rude.

Large elemental strength; and then
He learned His trade in making men;
Learned how to mix and mould the clay
And fashion in a finer way.

How fine that skilful way can be
You need but lift your eyes to see;
And we are glad God placed you there
To lift your eyes and find us fair.

Apprentice labor though you were,
He made you great enough to stir
The best and deepest depths of us,
And we are glad he made you thus.

Aye! We are glad of many things,
God strung our hearts with such fine strings
The least breath moves them, and we hear
Music where silence greets your ear.

We suffer so? but women's souls,
Like violet powder dropped on coals,
Give forth their best in anguish. Oh,
The subtle secrets that we know.

Of joy in sorrow, strange delights
Of ecstasy in pain-filled nights,
And mysteries of pain and loss
Known but to Christ upon the Cross!

Our tears are pitiful to you?
Look how the heaven-reflecting dew
Dissolves its life in tears. The sand
Meanwhile lies hard upon the strand.

How could your pity find a place
For us, the mothers of the race?
Men may be fathers unaware,
So poor the title is you wear. . .

But mothers? who that crown adorns
Knows all its mingled blooms and thorns;
And she whose feet that path have trod
Has walked upon the heights with God.

No, offer us not pity's cup.
There is no looking down or up
Between us; eye looks straight in eye
Born equals, so we live and die.

Results to Date of Prohibition

"What Has Prohibition Actually Accomplished to Date?" asked William Randolph Hearst editorially in the Boston American of July 3. One hundred dollars will be paid for the best answer of not more than 150 words.

Made Homes Happy

Editor Boston American:

Prohibition has made thousands of homes happy. It has made millions of little children's hearts glad, knowing that Daddy does not drink now. It has made our streets clean and safe to walk upon. It has eliminated the home-breaking barrooms. It has saved many young men from ruin. It has laid the cornerstone to the temple of wisdom, wherein the rising generation will learn as never before its moral worth, and forever bless the day of its introduction.

W. E. GOODWIN.

Costumes of the Valleys

In some parts of the Black Forest, writes Mrs. Alfred Sidgwick in her book "Home Life in Germany," every valley has its own costume so that you know where a man lives by the clothes he wears. There is a valley where all the girls are pretty, and on festive occasions or for church they wear charming, transparent black caps with wings to them. There is another valley where the men are big-boned and black-a-vised, with square, shaven chins and spare bodies, rather like the English legal type; and they go to church in scarlet breeches, long black velvet coats and black three-cornered hats. Their women folk wear gay colored skirts and mushroom hats loaded with heavy pompons. In Cassel there are very curious costumes to be seen still on high days and holidays; from Berlin people go to the Spreewald to see the Wendish peasants; and in Bavaria there is still some color and variety of costume. But everywhere you hear that these costumes are dying out. The new generation does not care to label itself.

JUST LIKE A CALL

"Marriage," said Brown, "is like making a call. First you go to a-dore, then you ring a belle, and give your name to a maid."

"And after that," said Jones, "you are taken in."

HARMONIOUS SOUND HAS EFFECT ON PLANTS

By Winnifred Black

DOES music help roses to grow?

Professor C. F. Billings said so at the Music Trades Convention in Chicago the other day.

"Put a vase of roses on your piano, and then softly and lovingly play 'Oh, Promise Me' or 'Annie Laurie'—not jazz—and watch those flowers bloom out and blush with pleasure.

"The caressing notes create sympathetic waves which stimulate roses."

And after he'd said that, a liberal-minded young reporter buttonholed the professor and asked him if a phonograph in the backyard would help the shy onions, radishes and beans.

But all the same, I shouldn't be a bit surprised if there was something in the professor's theory about roses and music.

Love Plants Into Growing

I really do believe that you can love a plant into growing. I've seen it done, haven't you?

I used to know a woman who loved flowers better than anything else in the world. And her little garden was always gay with blooms before the sweet peas were even up out of the ground anywhere else in the neighborhood.

Yes, she worked in her garden a good deal, yet no more than the rest of the neighbors—but they worked as the garden would look respectable and be becoming to the house and to them. And the woman who always had the earliest blossoms wanted her flowers to bloom because she loved them so, she could hardly wait for them to arrive.

Music? I wonder if we realize what a lot it has to do with our emotions.

I've carried myself through a dozen strong emotional crises by singing in my heart some quiet comforting song.

And never in my life have I lain very ill in a darkened room without humming under my breath:

By cool Siloam's shady rill.
How fair the lily grows.
How sweet the breath upon the hill,
Of Sharon's dewy rose.
Of Sharon's dewy ro-ose.
Of Sharon's dewy rose.

How dewy was that rose to me, how fair and sweet the lily blue—the way back adown the years, I heard the dear voice of the one who loved so dear her little garden and the flowers that grew there and saw as in a dream her gentle face bending over me.

I'm glad I remember her by that old song—and not by:

I wants money—gimme money, money is what I craves.

Or words to that effect.

Adeste Fidelis—why, you can hear the Christmas bells, you can scent the frosty air, you can see the white snow sparkling on the evergreen at the door at the very first note of the old song.

The bluebells, the bluebells of Scotland's grassy lea.

I've always wanted to roam through the braes of Scotland and see for myself just how blue the bluebells are and how grassy is the lea whereon they grow.

In Memory's House.

"Sweet Alice, whose hair was so brown"—dear Alice. It is long and long since her brown hair was bound about her gentle head in schoolgirl braids. I wonder if she trembles with fear at any one's frown today.

"Oh, my poor Nelly Gray"—twilight, the evening breeze in the lilacs, tall tiger-lillies swaying on their stems, the tinkle of a cow bell in the meadow, and down the dusty road, the patter of tired little feet—coming home.

That's what the old song means to me.

"Good-by, sweetheart, good-by"—moonlight and the yellow roses creaming over the gate—the pulse beat of a waltz within the gayly lighted room near by. How the heart of youth can ache—and forget!

Does music help roses to grow? It wouldn't surprise me in the least if it did.

Bits of Banter

Some years ago, in a provincial music hall, a comedian was in the middle of his "patter" when the "house cat" leaped upon the stage and sat at his feet. He stopped and gazed at the cat with great gravity.

"Look here, pussy," he said, "you have made some mistake, I think. This is a monologue, not a catalogue."

An unpopular member of a commercial staff was leaving London to take up a position in a country town. "Well, I shall be working in a better atmosphere and under better conditions than I have been my luck here," he remarked as he bade good-bye to those in the office. So shall I," said another of the staff. "What—are you leaving?" inquired the unpopular one. "Oh, no! I'm staying on," came the reply.

CHARACTER IS BASIS OF ALL TRADE

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

IT is amazing—and, again, it isn't—how moral values enter into the most material, and seemingly impersonal, concerns.

There, for instance, is the stock market. They say that money has no odor. Therefore, presumably one may take for granted that traders in stocks, or buyers of shares for investment, would be indifferent to the moral aspects of their purchases.

Making editorial comment on the good buying of a particular standard stock, which had been under considerable pressure, the calm-blooded editorialist of a certain money column claimed it was due to one fundamental cause which the average speculator would never be able to understand.

He asserted that well-informed people always "buy character," regardless of corporate profits or other temporary conditions of an adverse nature.

When Prices Drop

Because they believe in the management, well-posted men buy shares of certain concerns, when the stock prices are low and when the "street" is saying unfavorable things.

Investors take for granted that ability, honor and character are a dependable combination for the making of financial success.

That is encouraging—to find that moral values count even in the stock market! They are the invisible assets accounted for in the visible corporation.

It was impressively significant that a rise of twelve points in the market quotation of the stock of the National City Bank of New York (Rock of Gibraltar among financial institutions) followed the announcement of the resignation of its much-courted president, James A. Stillman.

That is striking and gratifying confirmation of the relation of morals and banks, though by no means to be regarded as proof of the ethical integrity of high finance as carried on under banking auspices.

Descending out of the rarified atmosphere of high finance to the average commercial level you have noted, of course, that the item of "good will" is one of the treasured assets in every business enterprise, corporate or personal.

Good will represents a spiritual surplus which a successful business has acquired as the intangible net result of so and so many years of honorable dealing.

Thus character counts, even in material pursuits. For character is the invisible basis of business.

Of course, in private life even more, character is ever present as the background of relationship. Personal intercourse, too, is really a matter of buying and selling.

In Response to Desire

Character comes readily in response to our desire for it—not in answer to wishy-washy wishing, but to deep desire which means aspiration and effort.

High among the supreme joys of living is the satisfaction of finding yourself known and respected for the character which you have, more or less consciously, created.

There is room for a billion and a half of aristocrats in the world's Democracy of Character.

COMPANIONSHIP

Every city should have an organization planned with the object of introducing young persons who have come from elsewhere to the city to work.

As a protection against getting those into the organization whose influence would be contaminating to the others, it could be arranged so that each applicant to the club would have to furnish names of several well and responsible persons in the town from which they came, to whom the proper officials of the club could write for information and reference.

A young person in a strange city, especially one who has lived in a small town, wants more than anything else some one to talk to, someone with whom he, or she, can be friendly.

This desire often becomes so strong that the newcomer will take up with anybody or anything to get the companionship so craved.

It is in the leading cause of so many young men and women going wrong, in the cities.

The fact that they feel so alone, so without anyone nearer than the stranger, to care what happens, that it is easy to drift into evil ways, and to relieve the loneliness they get into, something they live to regret.
